Schirra Postpones Apollo Television Shots

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) -- Up tight on time and plagued by an autumn cold, command pilot Walter M. Schirra Jr. delayed television views of his Apollo 7 spaceship Saturday and fired his craft into a tough, complex rehearsal of a desparate rescue from moon orbit.

At 12:28 p.m. CDT, early in the second day in space, Schirra fired the hefty 20,000-pound thrust engine on Apollo 7, gunning in more power than a jet fighter plane.

"Yaba Daba Doo!" he exclaimed. "That was a ride and a half."

He fired the rocket for just ten seconds, testing it for the first time in space. The firing boosted his ship to a higher, egg-shaped orbit 140 to 226 miles above the earth and added 200 feet per second to its speed.

With astronauts Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham at his side, Schirra's object is to find optically and by stellar navigation the tumbling second stage of the rocket that shot Apollo 7 into space Friday, then to zero in on it.

A Basic Maneuver

It is the basic maneuver a moon pilot would have to use if the space cab taking two astronauts to the moon's surface were disabled and stranded in lunar orbit. Should that happen, the lone pilot in the mothership would have to swoop down on the space cab to rescue his fellow fliers.

The rendezvous maneuver was a crucial test for the spaceship's prime engine. It is the one system aboard the spacecraft which has no backup. For the moon flight it must be tested to perfection.

Earlier Schirra, a Navy Captain and 45-year-old veteran of two other space adventures, was adamant about postponing television plans. His voice husky from his cold, he told ground controllers, "We have a new vehicle up here. I'm saying at this point television will be delayed, without any further discussion, until after the rendezvous."

Refutes An Argument

A ground controller argued, "All we've agreed to do on this particular pass is to flip the television switch on. No other activity is associated with TV. I think we're obligated to do that."

Schirra's voice turned hard and he spoke in rapid, clipped tones: "We do not have the television equipment out. We've not had it out. We have not eaten at this point. I have a cold. I refuse to foul up our timelines at this point."

There was a 35-second slience, and then controllers changed the subject. That settled it. Schirra is the man who decides priorities in the spacecraft operation, and in this first critical 11-day flight of Apollo, television carries a low priority. Schirra had been against including the television camer in the first place because it would produce an inferior picture. Its slow scan rate is translated into a blurred, jerky picture on fast scan commercial television.

Cold A Nuisance

Schirra's cold was obviously a nuisance to him. He took two aspirin from the spacecraft's medicine chest Friday night, and on doctor's orders took a decongestant before his sleep period, and another Saturday morning.

"All the decongestant does is shrink the membranes and stop the runny nose," a space doctor said.

As they settled down in the spacecraft, the high-flying trio was beset by a horde of nitty problems, a warning light on oxygen flow, a balky radiator that cools the spaceship, and other uncritical but pesty difficulties.

Minor Difficulties

Eisele, an Air Force major, reported some trouble with the instrument that measures the direction and speed change of the spacecraft. But a checkout of the system by firing the small attitude control rockets proved it was working well.

In the emptiness of space, Eisele heard strange music Friday night while Schirra and Cunningham slept. It turned out to be a stray radio signal from a station on earth that found its way to the circling spaceship.

He asked Apollo control if they had been beaming popular music up to him. Control said it hadn't.

Message From LBJ

Apollo control broadcast the congratulations of President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey on the perfection of Friday's launch.

Swift Panama Coup Installs Two Leaders

President Arias Flees To Canal Zone

PANAMA (AP) — A two-man military junta was installed Saturday by the national guard, which ousted President Arnulfo Arias, suspended constitutional guarantees, and dissolved the National Assembly.

After the swift coup Friday night, Arias took refuge in the U.S. — controlled Panama Canal Zone with his cabinet and other followers.

In office only 11 days, Arias, 67, was in contact with U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Adair Jr. and the Canal Zone governor, W.P. Leber Jr. Both rushed back to Panama from Washington, where they had been attending a meeting of the Canal Zone's board of directors.

The coup caused dismay in Washington and the United States suspended diplomatic relations. Secretary of State Dean Rusk issued a statement saying "we are deeply distressed" by the overthrow of Arias.

"We have a close relationship with Panama and a stake in the stability of the isthmus in view of our presence there as stewards of the vital Panama Canal," he added.

National guard leaders of the coup accused Arias of planning to establish a dictatorship and to convert the national guard, Panama's army, into "a political instrument of persecution."

The junta is headed by Col. Jose M. Pinilla, summarily retired by Arias Thursday as deputy chief of the guard. His colleague is Col. Bolivar Urrutia, named by Arias the same day to take over the command of the guard.

The junta was reported trying to form a cabinet with representatives of as many political parties as possible, excluding Arias' Panamenista party.

It was obviously fear of what Arias might try to do to reorganize the 5,000-man national guard that led to the coup. Arias twice before was ousted from the presidency by the national guard, in 1941 and in 1949, and he had not forgotten.

In bypassing Pinilla and naming Urrutia, he apparently was trying to find an officer on whom he could rely.

There had been talk of a coup ever since May, after Arias had won the election by a comfortable margin. His foes tried to keep him from office, charging fraud. But he was backed by the national guard under Brig. Gen. Bolivar Vallarino.

Rusk Expresses Concern Over Panamanian Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk voiced the "profound concern to the United States" Saturday over the military takeover in Panama. But Washington showed little optimism over prospects for undoing the coup.

The sudden overthrow of Panama's newly elected president, Arnulfo Arias, was particularly dismaying to U.S. policymakers because:

—The United States has a special interest in political stability in Panama, the site of the vital U.S.-run canal connecting the Atlantic and Pacific.

—Coming so soon after the Oct. 3 ouster of Peru's constitutional government, the Panamanian coup raised apprehension that other overthrow-minded groups in Latin America might be tempted to follow suit. The United States is pledged to democratic constitutional processes in the hemisphere.

As Rusk put it in a special statement issued while high officials huddled over the Panamanian crisis:

"We are deeply distressed to learn that the Panamanian national guard has overthrown the recently inaugurated president.

"We have a close relationship with Panama and a stake in the stability of the isthmus in view of our presence there as stewards of the vital Panama Canal.

"This coup d'etat must be equally disturbing to our sister republics in the hemisphere."

Covey T. Oliver, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and some other high-ranking authorities were reported at their desks all night following reports of the overthrow late Friday evening—but what practical action the United States might be able to take remained, in their opinion, in some doubt.

Critics In Congress Assailed

Ramsey Clark Strikes At Inconsistency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark says those congressional voices that cried "havoc from the rooftops" about law and order did the most to thwart the Johnson administration's crime control measures.

In an interview as the 90th Congress prepared to adjourn, the nation's top law enforcement official criticized what he called the lack of constructive action by both the House and Senate on efforts to combat crime.

For instance, Clark declared, "to this day the Senate has sat on nominations essential to the implementation of crime control. And the man who cried the most about law and order has prevented the disbursement of

Attacks Democratic Attitude On Cuba

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, here for homestretch campaign strategy talks, said Saturday Communist Cuba "cannot remain forever a sanctuary for aggressions and a base for the export of terror to other lands."

The Republican presidential candidate contended in a statement that the Democratic administration "has talked tough and walked on eggshells" dealing with Cuba.

Nixon, who is staying here at the home of Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., did not spell out precisely how he would deal differently with Cuba. He simply promised that "a new administration will bring into office a new awareness of the continuing problem to ourself."

More than half a dozen of Nixon's top lieutenants flew here from New York to join him in weekend meetings that will produce the blueprint for the final weeks of the GOP campaign. One aim of the talks will be to make decisions on purchasing national television time.

In his Cuba statement, Nixon said the nation's attention has been focused on Vietnam, Eastern Europe and the Middle East and thus "we have tended to overlook the serious and continuing problem on our doorstep."

He asserted that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro "seeks through violence to destroy the governments of this hemisphere, operating on the theory that ... we will not take stern measures against him."

"The present administration has talked tough and walked on eggshells in dealing with Castro —despite the gathering boldness of his provocations and aggressions against the friendly and allied nations to the south," he said.

UF Campaign Is Ahead of Last Year

The Sedalia-Pettis County United Fund first report meeting, held Friday, revealed the campaign is ahead of last year's drive.

Reports from chairman list the total contributions in the first week at $23,522. This is 29 per cent of the goal of $80,000.

If this is an indication for future reports, the United Fund should reach its goal for the first time, campaign officials said. Workers are optimistic the campaign will go over the goal.

Senate Approves Postmaster Choice

The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Frederick M. Ream as postmaster at Green Ridge, Sen. Stuart Symington said Saturday.

Upcoming Auto Inspection Jan. 1 Will Be Thorough

The Missouri Motor Vehicle Inspection Law becomes effective January 1, 1969. Car owners will be required to have their vehicles inspected prior to registration.. Inspections will be made of brakes, lighting equipment, signaling devices, steering mechanisms, horns, mirrors, windshield wipers, tires, exhaust system, glazing, air pollution control devices, and any other equipment required by the state.

Verification of legal registration will also be required at the time the vehicle is presented for inspection. The vehicle owner's registration card, title, license or transfer receipt, or on new vehicles the bill of sale prescribed by the Director of Revenue, or identification cards or lease agreements when the vehicle to be inspected is leased or rented will be checked with the manufacturer's motor or identification number.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, stated that verification of legal registration will be made in order to up-date the records of the Department of Revenue. It will also serve as a means of detecting any stolen vehicle.

"The verification of legal registration at the time of a vehicle's inspection is one of the official inspection procedures prescribed by our Department," Hockaday said. "Vehicle owners should have the necessary records available at the time of inspection."

The Patrol Superintendent also noted that inspection stations will be open December 1, 1968, to take care of those vehicles whose licenses must be renewed in January. The State law requires vehicles be inspected within 30 days prior to registration.

Brakes To Be Checked

Among the items to be checked on vehicles presented for inspection under the state's Motor Vehicle Inspection Law are the brakes. Adequate and equalized brakes are very important from the standpoint of safety, otherwise your vehicle may not be able to stop in an emergency. At the time of inspection, the inspector-mechanic will check the foot and emergency brakes to determine their sufficiency and adjustment.

The foot brake must be able to stop a normal passenger car within 25 feet when the vehicle is moving 20 miles per hour. The brakes may be tested in a road test or with a brake testing machine. The brake pedal will

Whirlwind Berlin Visit Shows U.S. Intentions

BERLIN (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford made a whirlwind visit to West Berlin Saturday and declared the United States would never tolerate use of Soviet force against the city.

In a five-hour visit, Clifford rode about Berlin in a sightseeing bus accompanied by Mayor Klaus Schuetz. He was undisturbed by 100 young anti-Vietnam war protestors who hooted him at city hall. Earlier the youths had thrown eggs and bags of paint at city hall but were held back by scores of police during Clifford's appearance.

At the Brandenburg Gate where the Communist wall divides East and West Berlin, Clifford pointed out that Communist East Germany, which built the wall, had taken part in the Czechoslovak invasion and said that recent events in Prague "are a melancholy reminder that the time and the mentality which the wall represents have not disappeared."

Clifford declared that the Western allies have the "right and the means to insist that the Soviet Union honor its clear and binding obligations with respect to Berlin," the subject of recent threatening statements by the Russians.

He said the United States would "take whatever means that is necessary" to maintain access to West Berlin, 110 miles inside East Germany.

Clifford told a news conference that the U.S. government has informed the Russians that "we will not tolerate the use or threat of force (against Berlin). We know from responses from the Soviets that they understand." He did not elaborate.

Clifford said he did not think it necessary that U.S. forces in West Germany or West Berlin be increased although he viewed the redeployment of Soviet forces along the Czechoslovak frontier with West Germany as a serious matter.

The defense secretary praised the U.S. forces deployed in Europe—some 300,000 men—and said other divisions stood ready in the United States for use in Europe if necessary.

Construction Workers Have Key To Make Young Boy's Dream Come True

Andy Wilson has only been in Sedalia four months, and three of those months he has been selling the Sedalia Democrat-Capital on the downtown streets of Sedalia, going in various business places, and making friends with customers.

Among these friends are a group of men who have been working on the new post office building, the superintendent being B. B. Stubblefield from Braymer. Wednesday evening Andy told them he was about to have a birthday. His birthday he said was Oct. 11, and that is a big thing in any child's life, so Andy was just as thrilled over the prospects of the coming birthday as other kids.

"What do you want for your birthday?" one of the men asked, to which he replied without hesitation the thing that every boy wants, a bicycle.

Thursday night the men decided that they would get him the bicycle. Each contributed — four carpenters, ten tinners, three electricians, three laborers, two pipefitters and Stubblefield.

Then they gathered at the Bungalow, where they knew he would go to sell some of his papers. The new bright gold bicycle was hidden in the closet and when he came in they told him to look in the closet.

It was a real surprise. Andy was so delighted he hardly knew what to do.

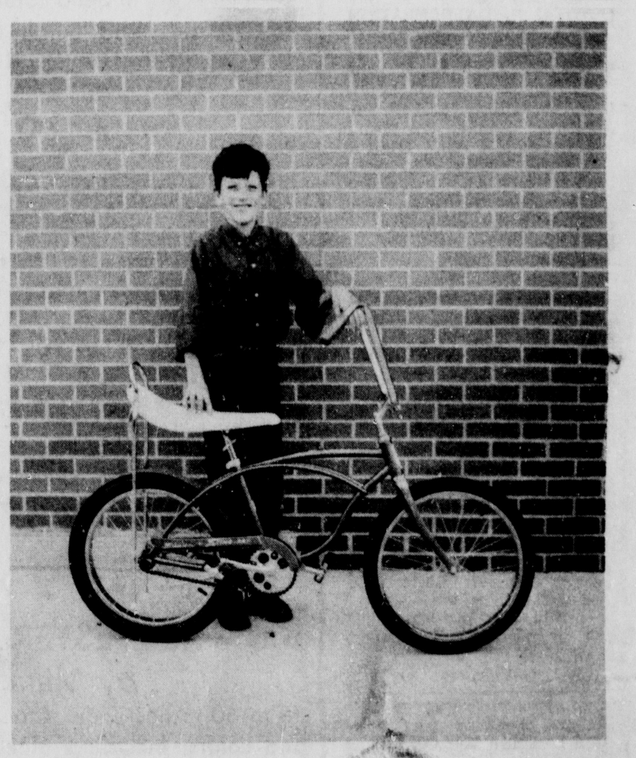

This was Andy's 12th birthday and one he will always remember. The men will always remember it, too, for the joy they brought to a boy who was trying to make a little money selling papers, probably to buy a bicycle.

Andy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson, 404 East Sixth, and the family came here from Poplar Bluff. He is in the sixth grade of Washington School. His teacher is Mrs. Nina Freed.

"Is this going to be in the paper?" he asked as the reporter was asking questions.

"Yes it is," he was told.

His eyes got even brighter. "I'll have to tell Mrs. Freed," he said.

A Big Smile

Exhibiting his new bicycle, Andy Wilson can't hold back an enormous smile of appreciation for a gift which made his birthday dream come true.

Helen G. Steele Music Club Observes Diamond Anniversary

The Helen G. Steele Music Club presented its diamond anniversary program on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 9, at Heard Memorial Club House which began with a luncheon. Invocation was given by Mrs. W.E. Hurlbut.

Mrs. George Routszong, president, welcomed all to the 75th anniversary luncheon, and expressed regret that the club's oldest and only life member, Miss Jessie Blair, was unable to attend because of illness.

Mrs. Routszong then introduced Mrs. W.E. Hurlbut, president of the sister club, Sorosis, three past presidents, Mrs. Harold Yunker, Mrs. M.L. Edwards and Mrs. H.L. Hodges, and Mrs. George R. Lovercamp, president of the Fifth District Missouri Federation of Music Clubs.

Four new officers, Mrs. E.A. Logan, first vice-president, Mrs. C.S. Arnest, recording secretary, Mrs. Philip Hoffman, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. H.C. Johnson, auditor, were then presented by Mrs. Routszong as were three new directors, Mrs. C.A. Wright, Mrs. James McNeil and Mrs. J. W. Watts.

Twenty new members were introduced by Mrs. Logan as follows: Mrs. Tracy York, Mrs. Emery Herrick, Mrs. Ethel Jones, Mrs. Barry Williams, Mrs. Douglas Kneibert, Mrs. Lyman Riley, Mrs. M.O. Green, Mrs. Gaylan Cope, Mrs. Tom Miller, Mrs. Albert Miller, Mrs. R.W. Cunningham, Mrs. F.J. Quigley, Mrs. Harry Boul, Mrs. John Boul, Mrs. Elizabeth Woolery, Mrs. Fran Slagel, Mrs. Edward Worley, Mrs. Carl Zimmerschied, Mrs. W.J. Shumake and Mrs. John Harrison.

The program was presented by Mrs. H.C. Johnson, chairman of the day and her co-chairmen, Mrs. L.H. Hodges and Mrs. George Lovercamp.

Mrs. Johnson told of the afternoon, Sept. 6, 1893, when the Ladies Musical Club was organized at the home of Miss Helen Galley. It was limited to 30 members, dues were 25 cents a meeting and either musical study programs or instrumental programs were held every week. They always called the roll, Mrs. Johnson said, marking who was present, who was absent and who was tardy. She finally discovered the reason for that was that the members were fined for being absent or tardy.

Their first aim was to improve themselves and the second to enjoy the programs. Two programs, free to the public, were given that first year and Mrs. Johnson had the original programs. The first was at the Gregg building and the second at the Christian Church. The first program was a piano quartet, followed by a solo by Miss Beulah Harris who later became Mrs. E.F. Yancey, and so the same program was given Wednesday afternoon.

The piano quartet was composed of Mrs. J.W. Watts, Mrs. Gary Swartz, Mrs. Larry Owen and Mrs. Paul Berthouex, who played "Valse Brillante" by Moszkowski.

This was followed by a solo by Mrs. Jack Herndon who sang the recitative and Aria from Faust, by Gounod. As Marguerita she caressed the flower from her lover, as she sang, but as she took the jewels from the chest, dreamed of the stranger who would admire her. She was accompanied by Mrs. Keith Maynard.

The first president of the music club was Mrs. M.E. Donnahoe, who is believed to have been a music teacher, and who served three years. Mrs. Sallie Potter Sneed served one year and the fifth year Miss Helen Galley became president. She was the daughter of a lumber dealer, and they lived in the 600 block on West Fifth. She was a beautiful and talented girl, attended the Cincinnati Conservatory, and spent one year traveling in Eruope. She had an electricitying personality and the ability for people to want to work for her. Her pupils, Mrs. Johnson said, would work hard to hear her say: "Well done."

Miss Jessie Blair, Mrs. Johnson continued, was not a charter member but joined four or five years after the club was organized. She served as secretary for more than 30 years.

Miss Beulah Harris, who became Mrs. Yancey, formed a tentative state federation. Miss Galley was on the national federation board. In 1900, instead of giving concerts the club decided to bring five recitalists to Sedalia and on this they cleared $20.16.

In 1901 the membership was increased to 50 and in 1902 to 60. They bought a grand piano. In 1904 the club gave a performance in Wood's Opera House.

After serving seven years as president, Miss Galley, who by now was Mrs. W.D. Steele, was made life president and several noted persons in the musical world were brought to Sedalia. In 1911 they brought a symphony orchestra here and paid $1,000 for it, then, having $50 left gave this money to the YMCA building which was being built at Fifth and Lamine, now the Old Missouri Homestead.

In a state contest, Miss Mabel DeWitt won first place, and went on to the national contest. The club gave her five five-dollar gold pieces. In 1915 they cleared $526.26 on a Shakespearean pageant at the old Sedalia Theater. In 1916 Mrs. John T. Heard assisted as chairman for a public performance on which they cleared $500.

In 1917 a chorus gave a program of three songs. In keeping with the history the chorus Wednesday afternoon sang two of the songs, "Lost Chord" by Sullivan and "Last Rose of Summer." Members of the chorus directed by Mrs. Donald Barnes, with Mrs. Robert Woolery accompanist, were: Mrs. M.O. Stevens, Mrs. Job Harned, Mrs. T.E. Gasperson, Mrs. Stanley Fisher, Mrs. Miles Rhodes, Mrs. Larry owen, Miss Mary Hurlbut, Mrs. A.J. Harlan, Mrs. William Garton, Mrs. William E. Lusk, Mrs. Ben Mahoney, Mrs. Don Buller, Mrs. Barry Williams, Mrs. Chester Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Jack Herndon and Mrs. Ed Worley.

In 1917 the chorus entered a contest in Kansas City and won first place, $100. At that time there was a Men's Apollo Club here and that club joined them in Kansas City for a mixed chorus. This time they won first with $300. These women, Mrs. Johnson said, had a vision, and many musicians over the state owe their training to this organization.

Mrs. Hodges presented the second part of the program from 1917 to 1940. This was the beginning of World War I, she said, and in October of that year the club presented a patriotic program. Miss Mary Hurlbut was on that program and Wednesday sang again with a sextet. Other members of the sextet were: Mrs. Stanley Fisher, Mrs. Ben Mahoney, Mrs. Don Buller, Mrs. Chester Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Jack Herndon. The song they sang was: Keep the Home Fires Burning.

In December of 1919 the second annual convention of the state federation was held here, Mrs. Hodges said. In 1920 Mrs. W.D. Steele died and all paces of business in the downtown area closed for her funeral, and Mrs. Hodges read part of the beautiful tribute published about her at that time.

Community singing swept the country inspired by Mrs. Steele who had gone everywhere to direct it.

Mrs. Yancey became president in 1921 and a second grand piano was purchased for $1,650, Mrs. Hodges said. In 1923 the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra came to Sedalia for concert. In 1925 Mrs. Yancey was elected life president.

This was the year that "The Mikado," a Japanese comic opera, was presented. Taking part in it was Miss Florence Butterworth, who is now Mrs. D.D. Demand and in the school girls' part, Miss Estine Norton, who is Mrs. Al Miles, both members of the Music Club today.

In the 43rd year the late Mrs. John T. Heard left her home, as she and her husband had planned, to the Helen G. Steele Music Club and Sorosis. She was a devoted member of both clubs. A petition between the drawing room and the dining room was removed to make the auditorium. On Nov. 6, 1935, a memorial service was held and the Rev. A.W. Kokendoffer paid tribute to both Mr. and Mrs. Heard. Miss Blair served on the club house board for 34 years, Mrs. Herbert Schrankler, 33 years Mrs. H.C. Johnson, 14 years and Mrs. Harold Dean on the Club House committee since 1935.

Mrs. George Lovercamp told of the years from 1941 to 1968 which was the year of Pearl Harbor and the beginning of World War II. At the opening luncheon was the singing of God Bless America.

The 50th anniversary was one of old memories and young hopes, Mrs. Lovercamp said, and there was a lovely tea with decorations in gold. There were seven programs given for the Air Base and USO, the club sold war bonds, collected jewelry and trinkets to send to the men in service that they might trade for things overseas, the club gave $30 to the Red Cross.

The 60th anniversary program covered a ten year period and was dedicated to Mrs. Yancey, "This is Your Life." Mrs. Yancey died March 3, 1962 and on March 7th, a special memorial was held. The State Convention had been planned for here and was held. Mrs. Harold Yunker served out the year as president and was elected for the year 1962-63; then Mrs. M.L. Edwards, then Mrs. Hodges and the present president, Mrs. Routszong.

The program closed with the chorus singing "Let There Be Peace."

The next program will be "The Music of Worship" on Oct. 23, Mrs. Abe Rosenthal, Mrs. Alfred B. Potts and Mrs. Robert Fingland chairmen.

The luncheon tables were beautiful in blue and white, blue strips of paper down the center with diamond dust and the place cards, made by Miss Frances Trader with a rhinestone giving sparkle to the sketched diamonds with the words Diamond Jubilee, attached to the blue card. The arrangements were of white chrysanthemums in white containers with blue satin bows, on the speakers table and white chrysanthemums in vases on the other tables. Mrs. Louis R. Hughes, Jr., is chairman of the social committee, Mrs. James McNeil co-chairman, Mrs. Vernon H. Bingaman, Mrs. Paul Hedderich, Mrs. J.J. be checked for reserve height. Approximately one-fifth of the total available pedal travel must remain when the pedal is depressed. The brake pedal height must be maintained for one minute to pass inspection.

One front wheel and drum will be removed on all passenger cars and commercial motor vehicles licensed for a gross weight of 12,000 pounds or less. This includes pickup trucks. The drume is inspected for contamination, cracks, scoring or burning. The condition and the remaining thickness of the brake lining will also be checked and an examination for any leakage in the master and wheel cylinder will be made by the inspector-mechanic.

The vacuum system on power brake vehicles is to be checked for leaks, clogs or restrictions.

Two sets of adequate brakes are required under the Missouri Motor Vehicle Law. In addition to the foot brake, the emergency or parking brake must be functioning.

Steering Inspected

A vehicle presented for inspection under the State's Motor Vehicle Inspection Law will be checked for any defects in steering, alignment and suspension. Defective steering can cause loss of steering control and affects the vehicle's cornering ability and braking effort. Improper wheel alignment also affects the vehicle's steering ability and causes excessive tire wear.

The inspector-mechanic will check the steering mechanism to determine if there is any excessive play in any of the steering and suspension components. A vehicle having more than two inches of free play in steering wheels up to and including 18 inches in diameter, or more than three inches in steering wheels over 18 inches in diameter will be rejected. Ball joints will be inspected to determine their condition, and in order to pass inspection, must not show more wear than the manufacturer's recommended tolerance.

The vehicle's front end alignment may be tested by a driver-over alignment tester which is capable of determining the amount of tire slippage that occuus while the vehicle is traveling forward. Any tire slippage in excess of 30 feet per mile of forward travel will cause the vehicle to be rejected. A toe gauge or a toe device which is part of a front end alignment machine may also be used to determine the amount of toe-in. When tested by this method, a vehicle will fail inspection if the toe-in or toe-out exceeds the manufacturer's specifications by more than fifty per cent.

The front and rear corners of the vehicle will be bounced to check the condition of the shock absorbers. If the vehicle bounces freely three or more times or if the rubber bushings and mounting bolts are excessively worn or missing, the vehicle will be rejected.

Howard said the work should be completed by next fall.

The Sedalia firm has also been awarded a $3,638,884.73 contract for work on U.S. Highway 54 near Fulton.

Republicans Predict Takeover Of House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The minority Republicans are predicting they'll take over the Missouri House after next month's general election and should improve their position in the State Senate.

But the Democrats, though less optimistic than they have been in years, still figure they'll preserve their control in both houses of the Missouri General Assembly.

Now the Democrats hold the Senate 23 to 11 with only half the 34 seats up for contest this year. They control the House 107 to 56.

Delton L. Houtchens of Clinton, Democratic state chairman, said late this week "we're not asleep. I'm very confident that the Democrats will hold House control and there'll be no appreciable change in the Senate."

But Rep. R. J. (Bus) King, R-Clayton, minority leader in the House, saw things differently.

"I think we have a real good chance of winning 92 seats in the House"—20 more than the majority needed to control that chamber of the General Assembly.

Without specifying the districts, King said he thought the GOP would add six and possibly eight House seats from St. Louis County, four and possibly six from St. Louis City and four or perhaps six from Jackson County.

Those muscle - building actions in the metropolitan areas, he said, will produce about half the GOP votes needed for House control. In the outate areas the Republicans are working hard, spurred on by the belief the Nixon - Agnew ticket provides their party with the best chance in Missouri for many years.

The Republicans haven't controlled the Missouri House since the 1953-54 session nor the Senate since 1948. That's a long dry spell and leaves the party's legislators a little shy of experienced men to hold down official positions should the GOP win control.

King said there have been only three times in his political life when he thought the voters were rebelling against the "in" party with a vengeance — in 1932, in 1946 and again this year.

"People act like they're just fed up," he said, "and the Democrats are indicating by their hysterical moves that we've got them on the run this time."

Houtchens, who said Vice President Humphrey has promised to name him Democratic national chairman after the Nov. 5 election, believes Humphrey's chances are improving in Missouri.

literally millions of dollars that are available now to local law enforcement to protect the public."

Although Clark did not identify the senator, he apparently referred to the lack of Senate action on the nomination of Patrick V. Murphy, the District of Columbia's public safety director, as head of a new agency—the Law Enforcement Administration Agency — formed under the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act. The agency was formed to handle a program of federal grants to strengthen local police forces.

Clark, emphasizing that law enforcement is mainly a local responsibility, also observed: "It's odd that the very people that decry centralization of power in Washington point to Washington for a solution to the crime problem."

Conceding that the nation's crime rate is increasing sharply, Clark called for a scrutiny of the underlying causes of criminal activity and charged society with creating the environment on which crime thrives.

"Among the causes, whether people want to admit or not, are injustice, poverty, and lack of education," Clark said.

And in so many words he accused Congress of failing to meet its responsibilities by blocking funds necessary for increased police salaries, improvement in the field of corrections, and for working with juvenile delinquents.

Clark, described by Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon as the first man he'll kick out of office if elected president, complimented the GOP candidate's proposals in the correction field.

"In this area ... he (Nixon) has been constructive," Clark said. "The Republican party platform has been constructive."

Nixon, in a midweek statement on the American prison system, proposed job training, work-release programs and halfway houses to help rehabilitate released convicts.

The new skipper of the local Civil Air Patrol unit hopes to see the outfit expand this year, providing she can spend the required time away from her family.

The replacement C.O. is Dr. J. M. Longworth, a LaMonte chripractor. The J. Stands for Juanita.

She replaces Capt. Otto Balke, 709 West Seventh, who has been promoted to wing headquarters in Kansas City. Col. Jack Kehl, 1905 Fairview Court, appointed Dr. Longworth to the post.

The CAP unit here offers cadet courses in space aeronautics, electronics and flying. Scholarships are available. Memberships are open to all age groups.

Meetings are held Tuesday evenings at the CAP building at the airport.

Miniskirt Blamed

LUTON, England (AP) — "It's your job to check up on motorists, not distract them," traffic warden Barbara Mitchell was told in a police order. The red-haired dispenser of tickets for parking and other minor offenses concurred, lowering her blue serge uniform hemline four inches to the kneecaps, and saying: "I am a bit disappointed . . . but I have to agree that a miniskirted traffic warden must be quite distracting."

College Receives $18,184

Officials at State Fair Community College announced that the Vocational-Technical Division of the college had received $18,184 in state and federal monies from the State Department of Education for purchase of equipment and payment of salaries during the last fiscal year.

Dr. Marvin Fielding, dean of indicated the funds had been used to purchase equipment and supplies for the practical nursing, secretarial science and the mid-management programs offered at the College.

These state and federal funds are available on a 50-50 matching basis to the Junior College District to purchase specialized equipment for Vocational-Technical Education, indicated the funds had been used to purchase equipment and supplies for the practical nursing, secretarial science and the mid-management programs offered at the College.

Federal funds are also available to pay approximately 50 per cent of the salaries of instructors in the technical division of the College.

Dean Fielding stated that the college expects to receive approximately $68,000 in state and federal funds for the support of vocational-technical programs during the current fiscal year. These funds are in addition to the regular state aid that the College receives.

President Davis stated that the availability of these federal funds enables the College to recruit qualified staff, purchase specialized equipment, and to offer high quality vocational-technical programs at a relatively low cost to the local taxpayers.

He added that enrollments in some of the vocational-technical curriculum had exceeded the original expectations of college officials and that it had been necessary to divide some classes and to add additional part-time staff members in this area.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

Note: I have been told by several readers of Sports Scraps they missed them last Sunday. I have only one thing to say. I should never have mailed them from Washington D.C. Air Mail Special. They probably should have been sent by Pony Express. But kidding aside air mail delivery often is slower getting to Sedalia due to the lack of air facilities at the Sedalia Memorial Airport. It is something for the voters to think about come Tuesday Nov. 5th when the proposal for airport bonds is resubmitted to the voters.

I DO NOT know anyone who could be prouder of a young football player than Dr. A.R. Maddox, unless it would be his father. But is is a fact Dr. Maddox, smiles whenever the name of Lester Boggs is mentioned. In case you do not know who Lester Boggs is, it can better be said by his Coach "Chuck" Shelton.

The other day visiting with Dr. Maddox, Boggs' name came up and that started it all.

"Do you know," he said, "I brought that boy into the world. In fact I brought all his brothers and sisters into the world, as well as their mother and father.

"They have 11 children and every one is a fine child," Dr. Maddox said. The oldest boy is a student at Central Missouri and doing alright, I am told," Dr. Maddox concluded.

When Coach "Chuck" Shelton was approached about the Boggs' football talents, he smiled but didn't do any bragging. However, he said of Lester, "he has football right here (pointing to his heart) and he wants to be good, which makes him good. He has his days, but what boy doesn't. There is one thing I will say. When you call upon him he'll do his best. In fact I have a great many boys this year on the squad who are willing and do their best.

"I might add Lester has a little brother, a sophomore, who is really coming along and will be a real competitor. As to the other Boggs, I have met them but I don't know them YET, but if they are like the two we have now, I'll take the whole bunch Shelton concluded.

THE new program of the Missouri High School Activities Association football program is one which the Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association has been pushing for. Several years it has been brought up and this year the MSHSAA has offered it to high schools — a state championship game.

A point system has been arranged to name the teams to represent districts. It is going to be a test for several high schools, especially the Jefferson City Jays, who from the present outlook will be in the play-offs.

Who knows, Jefferson City may be the first team in Missouri to win a state championship under this new play-off plan — then on the otherhand it may be some other team — it could happen.

The Smith-Cotton chances are gone by the defeats by Marshall and Columbia. However, time will tell. Maybe the Tigers in the not too distant future will have an opportunity to again bring a gridiron title back to Sedalia.

The old Sedalia High School Tigers did win a championship title and, as I recall it, it was about 1916.

Tigers Win, 27-14 With Big Offense

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri riddled Colorado with a relentless running attack Saturday and defeated the Buffaloes 27-14 in the Tigers' Big Eight Conference football opener before 50,707 fans in Memorial Stadium.

The Tigers, with senior tailback Greg Cook leading the way, shredded Colorado's defense for 421 yards rushing and dominated the play from start to finish to record their third victory in four games.

Colorado's entire offensive show for the day came on a pair of long, quick touchdown passes thrown by Bob Anderson. He hit Mike Pruett on a 66-yard toss in the second quarter and connected with Steve Engel on an 80-yarder in the third period.

Aside from those two bombs, however, Anderson could not move the Buffs against Missouri's stingy defense. Anderson, the Big Eight total offense leader, wound up with 147 yards—146 of it in the two scoring passes.

So completely did Missouri control things that the Tigers wound up running 112 plays from scrimmage to Colorado's 37. And, the Buffaloes got in 11 of their plays in the closing minutes.

Cook carried 23 times for 121 yards and got good running support from fullbacks Ron McBride and James Harrison.

Missouri used a spread defense against Anderson which left the Tigers vulnerable over the middle, and it was this weakness that Anderson exploited for the two touchdowns. However, Missouri intercepted four of his passes in the second half when he tried to rally Colorado.

The Tigers drove 48 yards in nine plays for their first touchdown, then came right back with an 86-yard march in 20 plays to make it 14-0.

Missouri's rushing yardage was the most ever gained against Colorado.

Michigan State rushed for 390 against the Buffs in 1951.

Colorado, trailing 17-7 in the second quarter, swept to the Missouri 2-yard line on Ward Walsh's 51-yard run. On the next play Engel fumbled the ball across the goal and Roger Wehrli recovered for a Missouri touchback.

Missouri had a 66-yard punt return by John Staggers called back by a clipping penalty early in the second half.

The Tigers had the ball for 61 offensive plays to only 18 for Colorado in the first half. At one point late in the third quarter, the ratio reached 82-22 for Missouri. Yet, at that stage, Missouri owned only a 17-14 lead because of Henerson's two long touchdown passes.

In fact, it looked for a time as if Missouri might have to win it on Henry Brown's field goal kcking. Brown, who replaced Jay Wallace as the Tigers' kicker for this game, booted a 35-yard goal in the second quarter and added a 30-yarder in the third period. He missed two other attempts from the same range.

Missouri iced the victory with a 36-yard touchdown drive late in the game, following a pass interception by Butch Davis—his second theft of an Anderson pass.

Missouri coach Dan Devine said, "It's been a while since we dominated a game like this. I'm not surprised, just happy."

That set the tone of the game.

Troubled Olympic Games Open In Peaceful Air

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The 1968 Olympic Games, born in chaos and rent by dissension and political strife, opened peacefully Saturday in a setting of old world splendor and without incident.

While sailors stood shoulder to shoulder outside the massive, saucer shaped Olympic Stadium, built over a lava bed, and police milled through the crowd of 80,000, Mexico President Gustavo Diz Ordaz officially declared the Games open at 12:33 p.m., Mexico City time.

The cordons of police were sombre reminders of the recent bloody student riots that left many dead and hundreds injured and threats of possible new violence to embarrass the Mexican government.

More than 7,400 brightly attired athletes from 108 nations —most ever to compete in the Games—marched crisply around the 400-meter synthetic track and stood erect in the infield as 6,200 pigeons and 40,000 balloons soared aloft into the bright, sunny skies.

Active competition starts Sunday, with the Games ending Oct. 27.

The sun broke through overcast skies just as the Mexican president, bespectacled and smiling, took the podium with Avery Brundgae, straight-backed 81-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee, and Pedro Ramirez Vasquez, the famed Mexican architect who headed the organizing committee.

The Mexicans regarded the sun as a symbol that the Games would go through the next fortnight with peace and success.

The Mexican Games have been plagued by controversy ever since this 1½-mile high city was selected. It started with the boycott threat surrounding the admission of apartheid South Africa, later rescinded; the cloud of a possible boycott by United States athletes, and squabbles over everything from shoes to sex.

There was not the slightest demonstration by America's Negro athletes, who walked around the circular track with their white teammates, a few holding their fingers aloft in the "V" for victory sign made famous by Winston Churchill and also used by members of the Czechoslovakian team, who received the biggest ovation of any foreign delegation.

In a concession to the fairer sex, a pretty Mexican senorita, Enriqueta Basilio Sotelo, a member of the Mexican track team, became the first woman ever in the Olympics to light the sacred flame that burns throughout the duration of the Games.

Another woman, Janice York Romary, a 40-year-old fencer competing in her sixth Olympics from Woodland Hills, Calif., became the first of her sex to have the honor of carrying the Stars and Stripes at the head of the American team.

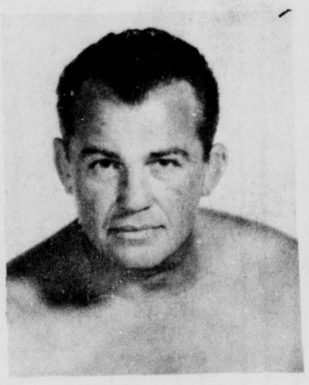

The oath of sportsmanship was taken on behalf of all competitors by Pablo Garrido, a Mexican distance runner.

Mat Fans Will See Extraordinary Card

Ronnie Etchison

Tornado Murdock

An extraordinary card has been arranged by Promoter Gust Karras for the regular Tuesday night wrestling show at convention hall, Liberty Park. Five events are listed on the card with plenty of action for the fans to see.

The feature attraction will be an eight man tag-team event. A similar match was held at the park several months ago and proved entertaining to the ringsiders at that time.

A team composed of Bob Brown, Tornado Murdock, "Dirty Dusty" Rhodes and Gil Hayes will be meeting the team of Tommy Martin, Earl Maynard, Ronnie Etchison and Sonny Myers.

A single match has been scheduled for Ronnie Etchison, who has a score to settle with Tornado Murdock as a result of their meeting last week.

Last Tuesday Murdock slipped up behind Etchison after their team tag event, grabbed him and used a pile driver on Etchison causing him to be knocked out for several minutes. Ronnie in discussing the coming event said, "I am going to giant swing him until he is so dizzy he won't know whether he is coming or going."

A special event will bring together Tommy Martin, an idol of local ringsiders who hasn't lost a match in the area, and a newcomer to this portion of the Midwest in "Dirty Dusty" Rhodes.

Sonny Myers will meet Bob Brown in a one-fall 15-minute time limit event.

Earl Maynard is slated to use his powers on Gil Hayes. Maynard recently returned from a tour of the Eastern seaboard where he appeared in Madison Square Garden in New York City, and various other big auditoriums.

"This card is one I have been working hard on to get arranged," Promoter Karras remarked," and I am sure the fans will enjoy it."

Highest Year On Record For Quail Hunting

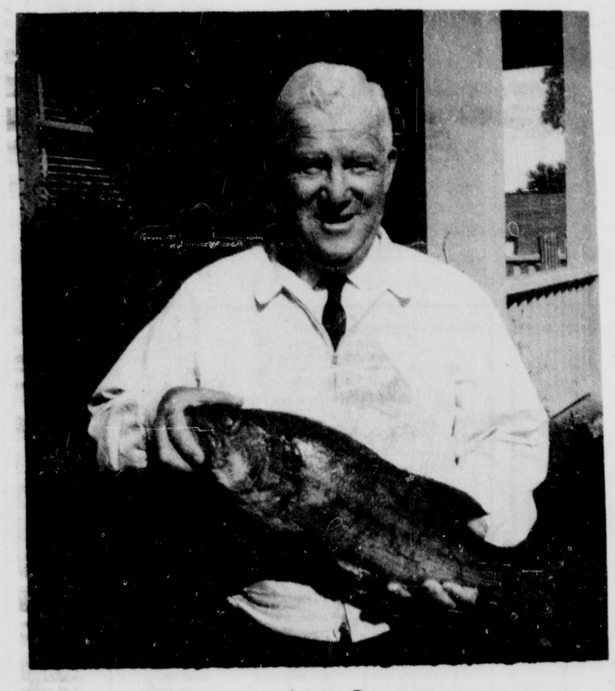

Fall is in the air — so is gunsmoke. According to the Missouri Conservation Commission, 1968 is the highest year on record for quail production.

If you happen to be after quail, there had better not be any gunsmoke in the air until Nov. 10. The season for the fast-moving bobwhite will last 81 days this year.

The reason for the outstanding quail production this year, according to local buckshot enthusiasts, is the good food and cover afforded the birds last year.

The bag limit is 10, and the possession limit 20. The commission's regulations indicate that "shotguns no larger than 10 gauge with no more than a three-shell capacity" may be used.

Hunting permits are available from Pettis County Clerk Jim Green at the courthouse.

World Cup Game Set Nov. 3 in Kansas City

Soccer's greatest spectacle will be displayed in Mid-America Nov. 3 at Kansas City's Municipal stadium — The World Cup.

The World Cup matches the best national professionals against each other in a 16 team tournament that takes two years to run off.

The first round zone game of the World Cup will be played in Kansas City matching the United States Nationals against Bermuda. The zone matches Canada, Bermuda and the United States.

Last Saturday Canada scored a 4-0 victory over Bermuda while today at 1 p.m. the U.S. team will match kicks with Canada at Toronto's McGill Stadium.

Kansas City Spurs forward Willie Roy, 1967 NASL Rookie of the Year, is on the U.S. Club along with native St. Louisans, Carl Gentile, Pat McBride and Carl Swaban.

Plans also call for a high school preliminary game beginning at 11:30 p.m. Teams will be announced later.

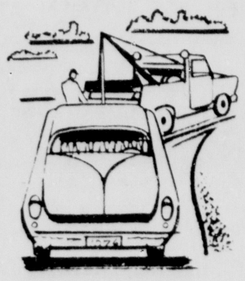

The U.S. has a golden opportunity this year as it has now two years of professionalism at the highest level under its belt and that its usual conqueror, Mexico, has automatically a seat as host team among the 16 finalists.

U.S. fortunes are being coached by the North American Soccer League's Coach of the Year and coach of the league's champion Atlanti Chiefs, Paul Woosman.

The game is being sponsored by the pro-Spurs under the sanctioning of the United States Soccer Football Association, Bob Guelker, president.

Versatile Halfback

Steve Lamb, light but versatile soph right halfback for the S-C Tigers, snatches a long pass which was thrown during practice by Chip Thompson, shifty soph quarterback. Lamb weighs in at 130, and has plenty to dish out to his opponents on the gridiron.

Tough Fullback

Smith-Cotton's sophomore football squad fullback, Charles Tippie, tips the scales at 180 pounds and stands six feet tall. Tippie has been out for football since the seventh grade, and on Coach Jim Shepherd's soph squad this year, he is noted for his astute defensive playing and his line plunges on offense.

Spells Trouble

The S-C Tiger sophs all have respect for big Dick McQuitty, 195 lb. right tackle on Shepherd's squad. Dick has played ball for the last three years, and spells future trouble for Sedalia's football foes.

Lots Of Football Set For Local S-C Rooters

In addition to this Friday night's big Smith-Cotton varsity homecoming football game against the Rolla Bulldogs, Tiger fans will be able to witness three more games this week when the sophomore squad of Jim Shepherd takes on the Helias Crusaders of Jeff City here Tuesday at 7 p.m.; the freshman "A" club of Wes Sanders plays Helias Wednesday at Jeff City at 4:15 p.m., and the eighth grade "B" team tangles with Clinton Tuesday at Clinton at 7 p.m.

Soph Game

Soph Coach Jim Shepherd stated that mental attitude will have a lot to do with the outcome against Helias at Jennie Jaynes Stadium Tuesday. He said that it is now uncertain whether Rick Boggs will be a starter because of the injury which he suffered in the game with Columbia October 7. The remaining offensive and defensive lineup will be approximately the same as in previous contests.

Freshman Game

Wes Sanders, frosh coach, said that with three of our regulars out with the flu, Curtis Temple, tackle; Doug Cline, fullback; and Paul Neel, center; we are trying to find replacements for these boys in our upcoming game Wednesday with Helias at Jeff City. The game will be played at Helias Stadium.

Sanders further stated that if the above mentioned boys are able to play, the starting offensive and defensive lineups will be the same as usual. He also said that even though Smith-Cotton defeated Helias last year 26 to 0, his players have a lot of respect for their brand of football and the Sedalians know they will have to play their best game in order to win.

Eighth Grade "B" Contest

Coaches Paul Schwartz and Foster McGuire emphasized that their eighth graders are showing excellent potential and are doing well in practice sessions. "These boys really like to play football, and they are getting their chance," they commented. Schwartz and McGuire have made conscientious efforts to let all of the boys play, even though a game might be lost or tied because of it.

The starting offensive lineup for Tuesday's contest at Clinton includes Jay Weaver, LE; Allen Bohon, LT; David Stoll, LG; John Butler, C; Sam Davis, RG; Cody McFarland, RT; Young or Cornwall, RE; Estes or Schroeder, QB; Andy Kindle, LHB; Bill Talbot, FB; and Richard Pettit, RHB.

Queen Candidates

Three Candidates Vie For Homecoming Throne

These three girls, all seniors at Smith-Cotton High School, will be sharing the spotlight as candidates for Homecoming Queen to be crowned during the halftime show this Friday night at Jennie Jaynes Stadium. The queen will be announced just before the crowning, and the other two girls will reign as queen attendants.

From left to right are Miss Karen Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin R. Burke, 2516 Highland; Miss Beth Ohlrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ohlrich, 1425 South Stewart; and Miss Martha Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Gibson, 210 Driftwood Drive. These girls were selected queen candidates by the Tiger varsity football squad last Thursday.

Homecoming activities this week will include a large bonfire and pep rally at the practice field north of Jennie Jaynes Stadium Thursday night, an all school pep assembly Friday at S-C, followed by the Homecoming Parade in the downtown area at 3 p.m. At 8 o'clock Friday night, Coach Shelton's Bengals will tangle with the Rolla Bulldogs in an important conference contest, and after the game a Homecoming dance will be held in the S-C Cafeteria.

Rawhide Club Will Hold A 'Sight-In'

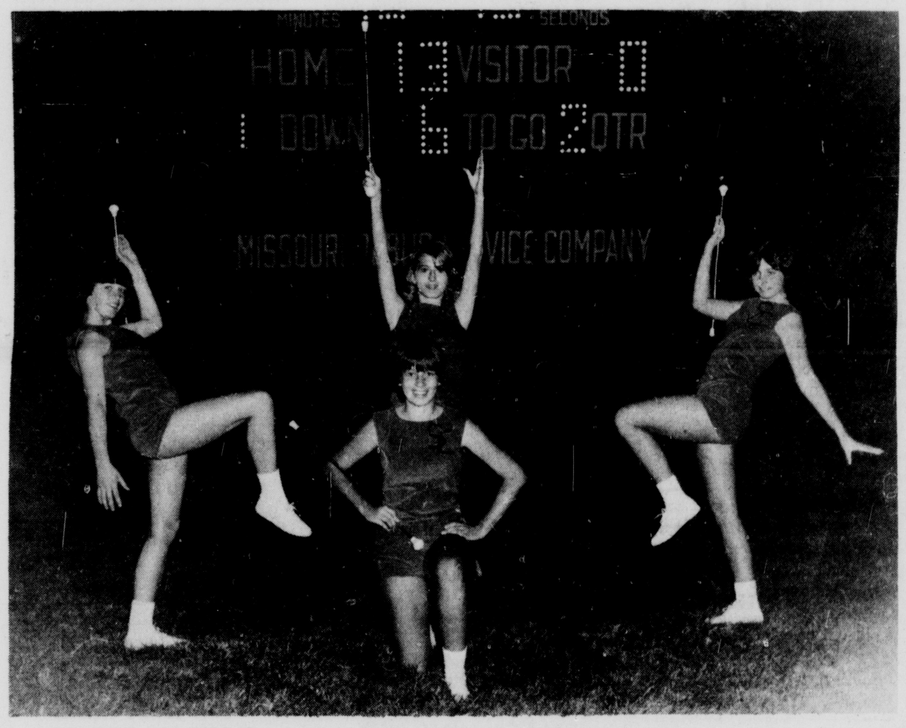

A "sight-in" for deer hunters will be held from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. today at the Rawhide Rifle and Pistol Club's range on the R.E. Bishop farm on Route W, south of Smithton near Ringen School.

According to a club spokesman, hunters need only bring their rifles and ammunition, other equipment will be furnished. Refreshments will be served.

A Homecoming Highlight

These seven Smith-Cotton High School varsity twirlers will be taking a prominent part in this week's homecoming activities, which will culminate Friday night in a queen crowning during the halftime show under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Schrader at Jennie Jaynes Stadium. Also, Coach "Chuck" Shelton's Tigers will play the Rolla Bulldogs in what promises to be a thrilling grid contest. From left to right, standing, are Kathy Hinken, Linda Stevenson, Jan King, Jackie Deck, and Debbie Short. Kneeling are the two alternate twirlers, Lisa Flores, left and Jan Pabst. Cathy, Jackie, Lisa, and Jan Pabst are juniors. Linda, Jan King, and Debbie are seniors.

Junior Varsity Twirlers

Large Crowd Is Expected For Bengal Homecoming

BY BETTE PATTERSON

A crowd of some 3,000 fans is expected to turn out for the Smith-Cotton Homecoming football game this Friday night at 8 p.m. at the Jennie Jaynes stadium as the Tigers take on the Rolla Bulldogs in a vital conference tilt.

On Thursday evening the varsity cheerleaders will stage the traditional bonfire and pep rally on the practice field directly north of the stadium to officially begin the Homecoming activities.

Homecoming Day

Classes at S-C will be dismissed for the all school pep assembly in the Physical Education and Fine Arts building Friday afternoon which will lead into the parade slated to begin at 3 p.m.

The parade will assemble on Massachusetts avenue immediately west of Smith-Cotton and will make its way toward Ohio Street where it will proceed northward directly past the Pettis County courthouse where parade judges will be stationed to evaluate each entry. Judges are asked to serve on the basis that they have no personal connection with the high school. They will select the three most original float entries and will award prizes of $25., $10., and $5., respectively. The prize money is provided by the Senior High Student Council which sponsors the entire Homecoming weekend. To date, floats entered represent each of the five classes, Drama Club, Journalism Club, L-Club, and the Spiz Club with three marching units set to join in the event, the senior high marching band, the Spiz drill teams, and the junior high marching band.

Gridiron Contest

"Rolla is a tough team and the game Friday night will be a real challenge." varsity head coach Chuck Shelton stated on anticipation of the important conference game Homecoming night.

During halftime, both the Smith-Cotton junior and senior high bands will perform for the coronation of the '68-'69 Homecoming queen. Candidates for this honored position are Beth Ohlrich, Karen Burke, and Martha Gibson. These girls were chosen by the varsity football squad members and the name of the queen is being withheld until the final moments of halftime ceremonies. Scott Schumaker, Senior High Student Council president, will crown the lucky girl and she and her two attendants will reign over the entire second half of the game as well as at the dance afterward.

James C. Braden, faculty sponsor of the Senior High Student Council, indicated high hopes for this year's big weekend. He said, "We are hoping for good weather for the festivities and a big turnout at the dance Friday night."

California Ruins Tiger Homecoming

The California Pintoes Friday night darkened homecoming activities at Versailles when they defeated the Tigers 34 to 6.

California started their show when Ralph Alphoff, Pinto quarterback scored twice, once in the first quarter and again in the second. The first a four-yard plunge and the second a 10-yard run. Jimmy Meyer kicked both extra points.

In the third quarter Berry went through the line for a 1-yard touchdown. Meyer missed the kick.

The fourth quarter saw Berry make two more scores, one on a two-yard off tackle play and the other on a six-yard run. Meyer kicked both points.

Versailles thrilled the hometown fans in the second quarter after a kickoff when Ed Maxwell, a junior and starting halfback, took the ball and dashed 80 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was missed.

It was a tough night for the Tigers when in the third quarter a touchdown was nullified on a penalty, and after that a first down was checked because of a penalty.

Versailles made seven first downs and California 10; yards gained rushing were 46 for Versailles and 201 for the Pintoes; Versailles completed four of 10 passes for 42 yards and California two of 11 for 26 yards. Versailles lost three fumbles.

Topping the halftime activities was the crowning of Miss Jane Bronco, a senior, as the homecoming queen.

Queen is Selected By Negro Students

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Miss Kay Corbin of Maryville, Tenn., was named University of Iowa homecoming queen Friday and Negro students did their "own black thing" by naming a queen of their own. Miss Maxine Thomas, a freshman law student from Los Angeles.

Dwight Coty of Mason City, Iowa, a junior who organized the contest, said, "As black people, a subculture within the university system, it is only fitting that our black queen reign over our black activities.

Shades of Dickens In Young Thieves

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Police arrested two men today on charges of training 12 teen-age boys to be thieves and paying them by the day to steal.

Jailed were Giuseppe Amendola, 37-year-old truck driver, and Vicenzo lo Sacco, 20-year-old day laborer. Two other men believed linked with them were being sought.

Police said the two furnished the 11-to-13-year-old boys with tools for breaking into parked cars and locked houses and paid them 500 lire—80 cents—a day each to steal.

Ann Landers

Executive Husbands Make All Decisions

Dear Ann: I work in an office for four high-powered business executives. Their wives call on the average of four times a day. This means, roughly 16 calls. The nature of their calls is so ridiculous I can hardly believe my ears. One wants to know if he prefers lamb or veal for supper. The next one is asking if she should wear the straight hair wig or the curly one. Another idiot asks if she should pay the carpenter with cash or by check. Just now the president's wife called to find out if she should hit their 5-year-old son for saying, "I hate you" or should she take away his dessert and TV privileges.

Is there some nice way to tell these women their calls are a pain in the ankle? — GRANDMOTHER FOLEY

Dear Gran: When the pain becomes sufficiently bothersome to the executives they will let the Little Women know. Until then, keep quiet and do what you are paid to do.

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago I married a boy of whom my parents disapproved. Rock and I were married four years and had a little girl. I divorced Rock but we still saw each other from time to time. When he left the country for two years I missed him very much and so did our little girl.

Now that Rock is back I'm sure I am in love with him as I never was before. My parents are driving me crazy. They say he is still a no good bum and if I remarry him I will be sorry. My father insists you can't change the spots on a leopard.

True or not? — UNDECIDED LADY IN LEXINGTON

Dear Lady: True — you can't change the spots on a leopard. But I didn't get the impression you were considering remarrying a leopard. I thought it was a man. People can and do change. If you and Rock want to remarry, the decision should be yours and yours alone.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine has attached herself to me like a mustard plaster. She telephones every morning and asks, "What are you doing today?" If I say, "I am going shopping," she says, "I'll come along." If I say, "I'm going to the movies or to the art gallery, or to a rummage sale," she says, "I'll come along."

I can't have a card game or a couple of friends in for coffee without inviting her, too. She knows every move I make. Don't tell me to drop her because she would give me the shirt off her back. When I need someone to take my kids, she's Johnny-on-the-spot. When I was sick she nursed me around the block. What do you suggest? — HEMMED IN

Dear Hem: If you really want to be rid of this mustard plaster — I mean friend — stop asking her to do favors, like taking care of your kids and nursing you around the clock. When you are no longer obligated, you will feel free to live your own life. Until then, it's going to be more of the same, and you can bet on it.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Receive Proposal To Limit Parades

CHICAGO (AP) — City Council received a proposal Wednesday to limit permits for parades and open air meetings in the city to Chicago residents and organizations.

The objective of such a proposal, Alderman Edwin P. Fifielski, its sponsor, said, would be to prohibit hippies and other outside groups to march in Chicago. Fifielski said such persons were primarily responsible for violence during the Democratic National Convention.

Survival Chances for American Wounded Are Better Than Good

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — Once the helicopter plops down in the jungled landing zone, the wounded GI's are closer to medical care than many auto accident victims on U.S. turnpikes. And once the red cross-marked helicopter arrives at the hospital landing zone, the casualties have a greater chance than ever of surving.

With few exceptions, the wounded American in Vietnam is within flying minutes of a full-service military hospital where specialists are standing by.

Much of the remarkable success of the American medical service here rests with the helicopters and the dare-devil crews who will fly through fire to evacuate the casualties. But another key is to place the hospitals as near as possible to the action.

While the death rate for wounded American troops in South Vietnam cannot be released, "it was less than two per cent in Korea and we're doing better here," said Col. Samuel L. Crook, plans and operations chief for the Army surgeon's office in Vietnam.

Crook, of Chattanooga, Tenn., added that in previous wars the dead-wounded ratio was about one dead to every four wounded but in South Vietnam the American ratio is one fatality to six wounded.

With about 1,000 Americans being hospitalized weekly for battle wounds, that ratio means thousands of men are living who would have died in any earlier war.

The 44th Medical Brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Spurgeon Neel of Memphis, Tenn., operates the 21 Army hospitals in South Vietnam. It works with the Navy's station hospital at Da Nang, the two hospital ships, Sanctuary and Repose, and the Marines' "C" Company medical unit in Da Nag.

"For the first time we have our own radio network," Crook said. "This is a tremendous help."

To a pair of infantrymen recperating in the 24th evacuation hospital at Long Binh, 15 miles north of Saigon, the system works well.

They are Pfc. Emil J. Resier, 27, of Geneseo, N.D., with the 9th Infantry Division's Engineers, and Spec. 4 Clyde Corsey, 22, of 2012 W. Westmoreland St., Philadelphia, a trooper with the 1st Infantry Division.

On Sept. 20, Corsey's battalion was making a security sweep along Thunder Road Route 13 north of Saigon when it was hit by mortars and rocket grenades.

Fragments tore into Corsey's right side.

"We returned the fire and called a dustoff," he said. "It was right there within 15 minutes."

Corsey's wound was serious and the helicopter dropped down at the division's clearing station in Lai Khe after a 20-minute flight. He was checked, given fluids, and 10 minutes later was on another chopper for the 35-minute flight to Long Binh where he went into surgery immediately.

Reiser was on a land-clearing operation in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon a week ago when "barn, bam, they hit us," he said. "I didn't know what had happened when they opened fire."

Resier was hit in the back by shrapnel or a ricocheting bullet.

A dustoff was called "and it was there just like that," he said, snapping his fingers.

The first stop was at a floating aid station, the USS Collecton, which is part of the U.S. Navy flotilla assigned to the delta's waterways.

He was aboard the Collecton in less than 20 minutes and was operated on. He was transferred to the division base at Dong Tam but when doctors examined him another dustoff was called in and he was flown to Long Binh.

"They just dont waste any time getting you where you ought to be," said Resier, whose wife lives in Wahpeton, N.D.

Campus Life Revises College Wardrobe

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Judging from college clothes now on the market, the campus minority won't have a thing to wear, at least not for its kind of activities.

Obviously, designers did not know what FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover claims to know — that disruption will be a major subject at many Universities this year. Otherwise they might have digressed somewhat from the traditional sweater 'n skirt, turtleneck 'n trousers uniforms modeled by sweet-faced girls and short-haired boys in glossy fashion magazines.

Nevertheless, plenty of the current styles are adaptable to the activists' way of campus life. Culottes and jumpsuits, a rage among the fashion-conscious, are ideally suited for taking over administration buildings. Maxi-length skirts made of horse blanket wool or quilted materials do well for sleeping in parks.

Recently Esquire magazine realistically envisioned the Sweetheart of '68 with super goggles, a must for every collegiate anyway, and a scarf worn over the mouth as protection against mace. Thigh-high boots, dandy for being dragged limp to a paddy wagon, and an army surplus helmet, which may also be used for summers in Chicago, completed the ensemble.

Despite what apprehensions they may have about modern chemistry, the student protestors would have to admit that test-tube textiles are on their side. Most materials are treated to resist flammability, a safety factor for the draft card burner. Many more are drip-dry and wrinkle free, satisfactorily surviving dousings by fire hoses and weekends in the clink.

Unisex fashions—identically designed wardrobes for male and female — is another current style phase which the new morality student might find useful. These eliminate confusion for boy and girl sharing the same room.

Considering how little time the student activist must have for his studies, paper apparel ought to be a boon. Paper collars and vests as well as cuffs would widen the scope of his crib notes enough to see him through any examination.

Still, since so many styles are applicable, the fashion industry is right in designing not for the left but center. The majority rules in fashion and the minority must shift — or shirt — for itself.

It's an entree that can wait should dinner be delayed. Perfect, too, for nights when the family has a staggered dinner hour.

BOWLER BEEF PIE

- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1½ cups water
- ¾ cup red table wine (or water)
- 3 carrots
- 12 small boiling onions
- 1 cup frozen peas
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons water
- Cheese pastry

Brown beef in hot oil. Add salt, water and wine (or water). Cover and simmer 1½ hours, until tender. Stir in carrots cut into chunks and peeled onions. Cover and continue cooking 15 minutes longer. Add peas and cornstarch mixed with water; heat to boiling. Turn into 2-quart baking dish. Top with cheese pastry, crimping edges against sides of dish. Cut few slashes in pastry. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 20 minutes, until crust is browned. Six servings.

'Quest for Human Dignity' Is Topic Presented AAUW

The American Association of University Women met Oct. 7 at the home of Mrs. Lacey Belt to hear Mrs. Albert Mayer, AAUW area chairman for World Problems and the first woman from Missouri to serve on a UNICEF committee, present a program entitled, "The Quest for Human Dignity."

Mrs. Mayer made a strong plea that the United States take a leading role in making its own declaration of rights become a universal declaration for social, economic, political, civic and cultural rights for all people.

She reported that consent of the governed is necessary for the establishment of rights. Governments which destroy the rights of their own people will not respect the rights of other nations, she said. Mrs. Mayer said that the principles needed for human rights are in the constitutions of 43 countries, but such a declaration does not make these principles laws. The United Nations has adopted 14 treaties in the belief that rights are deeply involved with peace, she added.

Mrs. Mayer, who recently returned from a world tour, said she was horrified at the plight of refugees in all countries but especially so of those 2,000,000 in Hong Kong. They sleep on roofs or in ditches, she said, and are hungry and ill-clothed. UNICEF helps all children, regardless of race or nationality, but can reach only a small number of the young refugees, she reported.

Mrs. Mayer urged AAUW members to support the efforts of the United Nations and asked members to write their Congressmen requesting that they vote for legislation pertaining to civil rights. Mrs. Mayer closed her talk with a poem entitled "Children's Charter" taken from a UNICEF brochure.

A business meeting followed the program. Members voted to endorse Constitutional Amendment I and to send a letter of congratulation to Fred Davis, president of State Fair Community College, on the successful opening of the college. Mrs. William Lusk was appointed chairman of the Coretta Scott King fund which will offer education to young women who might not otherwise have an opportunity for higher learning. The opening of a UNICEF shop in the Patterson Building was announced.

Mrs. John Zulauf reported that applications for the summer abroad program of the American Field Service must be given to Mr. Ciersdorff, school coordinator by Oct. 11. Students will be interviewed Oct. 20 and final selection will be made Oct. 21. She also announced that Skip Tornquist would talk at the Farm and Home building Oct. 28, on Peru and show slides. This meeting is open to the public. Miss Ida Cruzan announced an AFS fund raising card party to be held Monday, Nov. 18.

A number of new members and prospective new members were present. Dessert was served by the following hostesses: Mrs. David Williams, Mrs. Lily Thomas, Mrs. Doretta Waite, Mrs. Charles Wendt, Mrs. Bruce Whittier, Mrs. Wilfred Lee, Mrs. Virgil Rodgers, and Mrs. Robert Stockwood.

The November meeting of AAUW will be held at the home of Mrs. William Bunn. The program, entitled "Summer Foreign Travel Values," will be presented by Sedalia students who have traveled abroad.

Action of Weeds Sought by City

VERSAILLES — The Versailles city council, at a regular meeting, heard a request from the Women's Civic Club for the cooperation of the city in getting rid of unsightly weeds and undergrowth, and to seek the cooperation of property owners in the effort.

The council voted to grant a 10-year franchise to Missouri CATV, Inc., for the installation and operation of a cable television system in this community.

They opened bids on a new truck for the street department. The low bidder was Hunter-McDonough.

Glamor and Beauty On Russian Screen

MOSCOW (AP) — Touches of glamor have come to Soviet movie actresses, once relegated to roles with all the sex appeal of tractor drivers.

Marianna Kushnerova and Nonna Terentieva are two of the new beauties of the Russian cinema.

Blonde Marianna's charms have been displayed most recently in "Knight of the Dream," while Nonna captivated audiences—especially the men in them—with her performance as Kotik in the film, "In the Town of S," based on a story by the famous Russian writer Anton Chekhov.

Lacking the publicity machines of Western movie companies, firms here such as Mosfilm give out little information regarding their actresses. But a few details are known.

Nonna is one of the youngest and most talented Soviet Actresses. Now with the Kiev Russian Drama Theater, she was graduated only two years ago from Moscow's Schukin Theatrical School of the Vakhtangov State Theater.

Another pretty young actress, dark-haired Larissa Trembovelskaya, appeared in the Soviet musical film, "The Stone Guest." She also is well known on stage as a soloist of the Bolshoi Opera.

Larissa has appeared in major operas for more than 11 years and has joined Bolshoi tours in America, Canada and Britain.

Elvira Lossman, a cute blonde, is another popular young Soviet film star. On the musical stage, lovely Antonina Tsigankova won acclaim as Maria in a Moscow adaptation of the hit Broadway show, "West Side Story."

A veteran actress who is highly popular and esteemed by Soviet men for what they call her "natural beauty" is Tatiana Shmga, star of the Moscow Operetta (musical comedy) Theater.

Symphony Season Approaches

When Abe Rosenthal lowers his baton to open the concert by the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra on Monday evening, Oct. 21, it will be the beginning of his 33rd consecutive year as conductor. Rosenthal has directed the Sedalia Symphony since it's beginning in 1935.

The symphony is one of the few musical groups of its type still playing in the smaller cities of the United States. The orchestra has been perpetuated throughout the years by a fervid love of music by local musicians who desire to keep active in instrumental participation, regardless of their ages. Several playing now were a part of the original symphony.

Neighboring communities have also afforded the orchestra musical talent. These things, couples with remarkable financial support by subscribers and sponsors who underwrite the cost of the symphony each year, permit the orchestra to continue.

The present officers of the symphony are:

Mrs. Margaret Scott, president; Dr. Elliot Braverman, vice president; Mrs. William C. Garton, secretary; Arthur J. Morgan, treasurer.

Directors are: Mrs. Donald Barnes, Gerald Cecil, J.R. Fritz, Jack H. Shoemaker, Vernon H. Bingamin, Emmett Fairfax, Harry W. Walch, H.O. Foraker, William C. Hopkins, Mrs. Jack Herndon, Mrs. Charles Van Dyne, Dr. Ben E. Klein.

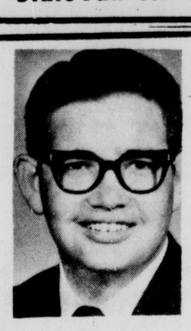

Abe Rosenthal

Three concerts are held each year with some nationally known and outstanding artist or artists appearing as guests. The opening concert, Oct. 21, will have as guests the Columbia Brass Quartet.

The Missouri State Council on the Arts in cooperation with the Sedalia Symphony Society and the Sedalia Council on the Arts has assisted in arrangement as well as participation in obtaining guest artists this season.

Peace Is the Main Item

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVID, Israel (AP)—David Ben-Gurion says peace in the Middle East is more important than the territories Israel has occupied. But he feels no peace is in sight.

Nevertheless the elder statesman who helped found this nation is not dejected: "I am a Jew and a Jew is optimistic. Others believe their great hour was in the past—we believe the great hour is to come."

Ben-Gurion is 82 next Wednesday. In a prebirthday interview he spoke of many matters, including the land Israel seized in 1967.

"I myself do not want to keep the Sinai," he said.

But he emphasize that in his view any decision to return that desert to Egypt must depend on an agreement by Gamal Abdel Nasser to guarantee freedom of navigation in the Suez Canal and the Strait of Tiran.

"I don't see any chance in the next few years for any peace in the Middle East," he commented. "The Arabs are preparing for a war.

"There can be—there may be — peace if Russia will change her policy. Because without Russia they cannot fight us. But I don't see now how Russia is going to change.

"If there would be world peace there would be peace in the Middle East. We are living in a world which is not united but is one world. When something is happening in the Congo it is a world problem.

"Russia is terribly afraid of China. When the Russian ambassador was here he said China is the greatest danger to the world-meaning Russia."

Ben-Gurion spends most of his time at KIBBUTZ Sde Boker in the oven of the Negev, writing a history of the state of Israel. He is technically out of politics but is still capable of wielding power behind the scenes.

Ben-Gurion has come into contact with such men as Sir Winston Churchill, Charles de Gaulle, and a series of American presidents. He calls Lyndon Johnson a great statesman.

"The United States, I must say, was always friendly—but to a certain degree," he says. "America knew the Arabs were going to fight us in 1948 and they imposed an arms embargo not only for Israel but for the whole of the Middle East.

"But they knew the rest of the Middle East didn't need it. They had weapons. They had armies and they were getting weapons from England. But they knew we had nothing, and they imposed an embargo."

More than 40 years ago Ben-Gurion announced his vision of the eventual state of Israel, stretching from the Litani River in south Levanon, the Awaj River in Syria, the Jordanian desert and the Red Sea. Last year's war brought Israel closer to those borders, but Ben-Gurion wants something else.

"I will tell you. If I could have a free choice between peace — and by peace I mean real cooperation and friendship with Arab neighbors—or keeping all the new conquered lands I would prefer peace. Because I know we cannot bring the whole Jewish people to Palestine. They will not come."

He was interviewed in his Tel Aviv house, where he lounged in a wooden chair between heaps of folders and papers. Occasionally he thumped the chair arm to emphasize a point.

His wife of 50 years, Paula, died last January, leaving him ill for a time. Her sharp tongue often had protected him from too much contact with his enthusiastic public.

Grocery Clerk Turned Hip in a Big Hurry

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — "Give me all your bread," the armed bandit told grocery clerk Mary Udell Wednesday night.

Miss Udell, not hip, directed him to the bakery counter.

"Look lady, I'm not kidding. You want to get shot?"

Miss Udell, now hip, gave the bandit about $300, and he fled.

Hearnes Lists His Programs For Industry

NEVADA, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes outlined a program to continue Missouri's rapid rate of progress in industrial expansion at a Democratic dinner and rally at the Nevada High School Friday.

The governor listed seven basic steps: strengthened authority for the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, the programming of development within the state to permit workers to be moved to the site of industry; development of educational programs to provide broader skills to meet industry's needs, development of finance corporations to provide funds for industries, and creation of a state industrial finance authority to provide a loan pool from state funds to supplement available investment funds.

Dubcek Asks Conformity

PRAGUE (AP) — To end the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia, Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek has urged acceptance of Moscow's view of the world and patience instead of protest.

While upholding internal reforms launched last January as the only course for Czechoslovakia, Dubcek devoted the major part of a speech Friday to the need for full coordination of relations and ideology with the Soviet Union and four other Warsaw Pact nations which invaded this country in August.

It was the popular party leader's way of meeting some of the demands made by Moscow during his talks there last week.

Looking drawn and tired after six weeks of work under pressure of the occupation, Dubcek addressed party leaders and workers at a Prague electrical equipment factory. Parts of his speech were televised Friday night and published today.

Dubcek acknowledged there have been protests against the continued stay of occupation troops, estimated locally at more than 500,000, and to his commitment to sign a treaty with Moscow legalizing the stay of some of them.

"We are receiving letters which state that all the troops should leave at once. Others after reading the communique on the temporary stationing of troops on our territory talk of capitulation and so on," he said.

Dubcek declared "we have no alternative" other than to carry out the August Moscow agreement in which Czechoslovakia promised to meet Soviet "normalization" conditions in return for gradual troop withdrawals."

Shows an Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The populations of Missouri and Kansas have increased, according to estimates of the Census Bureau announced Friday.

The two states, the 1966 estimates show the numerical and percentage increases from the census figures of 1960:

Kansas—2,275,000; 97,000, 4.4 per cent.

Missouri—4,564,000; 244,000 5.6 per cent.

Korman Finds Advantages In Being the No. 2 Star

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If Harvey Korman had chosen baseball for a career instead of acting—and had been as good at it—he would have wound up as the best catcher in the business. And he would have yearned, but not too much, to have been a star pitcher.

As it is, Korman, at 41, has achieved a success more appreciated inside the acting business than outside it—as the best and strongest support a comedian or comedienne can have in a variety show with its diverse requirements.

Korman backstopped Danny Kaye through four-years of that star's weekly show and moved right over to perform the same function for Carol Burnett and her variety hour.

Six-feet-four in height and a calorie-counter, Korman can sing enough to get by, fake a little dancing but becomes a giant in the sketches—which is the place, these days, when the chips are down. He is a master of accents.

"My job is to help the star," Korman says flatly. "Whether it was Kaye or is Carol, I'm there to offer all the support. I can. And, I may say, it is a joy to work with them—as it is with Lucille Ball, Dick Van Dyke, Jackie Gleason and, of course, Jack Benny. Every one of them is a consumate actor."

Korman, although he participates in some wild comedy, considers himself an actor who is playing comedy parts in a variety show. Other pretty funny people have been careful to make the same distinction between being a comedian and an actor. Benny and Art Carney are among them.

Co-star and general utility man for "The Carol Burnett Show" though he is, Harvey still would like to reach the top of his profession. But being the No. 2 man in a show has many advantages — financial security, steady employment, longevity in career and none of the trauma involved in trying to keep your own show somehow in the top third of the Nielsen ratings. Still, there is something about being the second banana that makes a performer just a little bit wistful.

He is, however, one funny fellow who does not dream of the day when he can play "Hamlet." He already has done that, on the stage, in Chicago, and to excellent critical notices.

He is a native of Chicago, was educated there and was hooked on acting in high school, which pushed him on to four years of dramatic studies at the Chicago Art Institute's Goodman School of Drama. Fellow students included Geraldine Page and Shelley Berman, another artist who, although he has made good in the comedy field, still insists he is, first of all, an actor.

Five years of trying to break into the New York theater led Korman to little except odd jobs for bread and butter, so he turned to summer stock and commercials. Eight years ago he was cast in a role in a Chicago play which brought him to the attention of Seymour Berns, then Red Skelton's director.

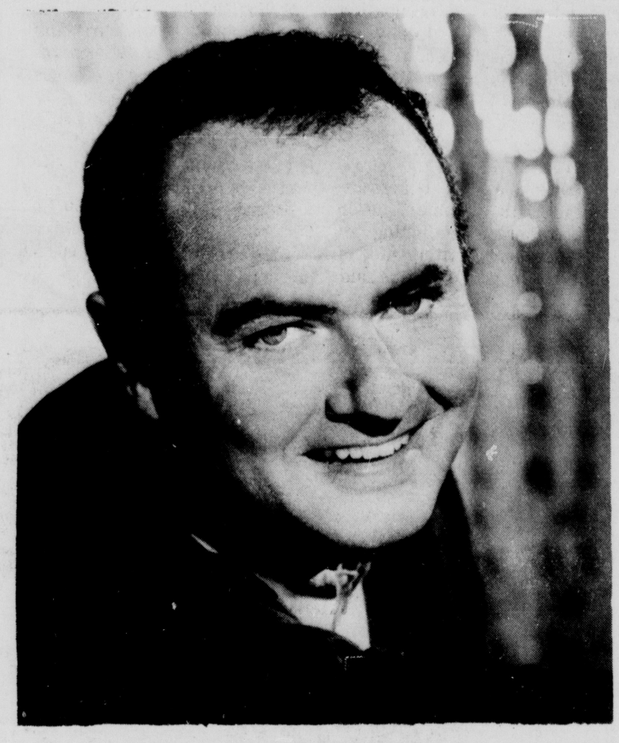

Three years later, Berns recommended Korman as a "character comedian" for Danny Kaye's show—a job that lasted four years.

When Carol Burnett and her producer-husband, Joe Hamilton, were working out plans for her hour-long variety show two years ago, Carol remembered the actor's all-around work on the Kaye show and suggested that they get "a Harvey Korman type" for her.

"Why not try to get Harvey Korman?" asked her husband. And it was as easy as that.

What else does Korman want from his career?

"Well, everybody wants to be a star," he said, "but I just want to keep acting—in television, in movies, on the stage. And, later, I think I'd like to buckle into a bit of directing."

Star Support

Harvey Korman could be called today's number one number two man. His specialty is to back up the leading comedian (or comedienne) of a variety show. He considers himself an actor rather than a comedian: his varied roles call for acting skill and versatility. At present he is co-star and general utility man for "The Carol Burnett Show." For the future he says "I just want to keep on acting . . . maybe a bit of directing." (AP)

Crossroads Comment...

Ah! What a relief.

Fire Prevention Week concluded Saturday without any dreadful disasters in Sedalia although there was a momentary potential one at Bothwell Memorial Hospital where an explosion in the boiler room occurred Thursday. Only one employee suffered minor flash burns. There was no panic by patients or personnel. Discipline prevailed. This reaction is commendable and in great measure attributable to the familiarity of personnel to emergency procedures.

Administrator Don Feeback's prompt and timely comment in the Democrat-Capital following the incident was reassuring because of public interest concerning what happened and how safety measures in force cope with such eventualities.

Mr. Feeback is of the opinion there is no need to replace the boiler unit, since it is a basically sound piece of equipment. This, too, is reassuring to the public and would indicate the stamina of the boiler unit to resist a sudden gas blast because of some malfunction to the operating devices.

If that unit has been operating since 1925, as originally reported, the Board of Trustees ought to tag it with a certificate of merit for longevity of performance. And if the manufacturer is still in business, he ought to use the explosion incident as a testimonial to his product's invulnerability to incapacity under extreme duress.

Apparently no great strain on the hospital's budget has occurred as a result of the blast because a new furnace or boiler will not have to be installed, we are told.

By the way, what technical malfunction did set off the simulated sonic boom? To relieve the community's curiosity about this may require the opinion of an electrical or gas expert. May we hear a report less reverberating than the one Thursday?

Like the fellow on the operating table said after being wheeled back to his room, "I'll remain in stitches 'till they tell me how it happened."

Do They Go 'Clop-Clop'?

Who says the horse is the forgotten man?

Through the miracle of modern technology, a new, light, all-weather horseshoe with built-in shock absorbency is now available.

The "elastomeric" shoe is made of synthetic rubber and will not break, split, shatter or fray at either high temperatures or below zero and is essentially self-cleaning, says its manufacturer. It minimizes the old problem of hoof dryout and also reduces shoeing time because it requires no heating or bending. It comes in three styles and a variety of sizes.

Horses have nothing to kick about now.

Post-Fire Prevention Week suggestion — Your home heating unit should be cleaned, inspected and serviced by a qualified serviceman at least once a year.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ball Wants to Tell HHH's Story

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The full story of George Ball's sudden resignation as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, a position of cabinet rank, has not yet been told.

Officially it is known that Ball told President Johnson he could not stand on the sidelines and see American foreign policy jeopardized by the election of Richard Nixon, a man whose shoot-from-the-hip speeches as Vice President had come near upsetting Eisenhower's coexistence policy.

Ball told LBJ he wanted to get out and campaign for Humphrey right away.

"I guess Hubert needs you more than the United Nations," the President said, and accepted Ball's resignation.

However, this was not all of the story.

Before making his decision, Ball had flown to Paris to check on the truce talks to see whether his getting into the political campaign would hurt them. He discovered quite the contrary.

For, on at least two occasions, Ambassador Averell Harriman had been on the verge of real success in negotiating with the North Vietnamese, only to have the rug pulled out from under him in Washington.

Either President Johnson, or some of those close to him, obviously did not want to make any concessions toward a truce. The President had kept a tight rein on his negotiators, Harriman and Cyrus Vance, despite the fact that they are two of the most experienced negotiators to represent the United States in recent years.

—HHH Is Cut Off—

Furthermore Ball discovered that Vice President Humphrey had been deliberately vbarred from seeing the Vietnam diplomatic cables ever since he opposed LBJ on Vietnam war policy in January 1966. Prior to that time, the Vice President had seen all confidential cables pertaining to the war and to peace efforts to end the war. But in January 1966 he was suddenly cut off.

This followed a period when the Vice President had privately opposed the bombing of North Vietnam.

The decision to bomb the north was taken at 2 a.m. Feb. 7, 1965, at a White House conference called after the Viet Cong had staged a brilliant sneak attack on Pleiku which destroyed a number of American planes.

Ball had attended that conference as acting Secretary of State and had opposed the decision to bomb. However, the Joint Chiefs of Staff had long wanted to bomb the north, a policy advocated by Sen. Barry Goldwater and opposed by President Johnson all during the 1964 election.

Nevertheless, Johnson, though only 17 days in office after defeating Goldwater, reversed himself at the midnight White House conference, overruled Ball, and accepted the military's advice.

Vice President Humphrey was not present at the midnight meeting. But thereafter he expressed private opposition to the bombing. He remained loyal to the President as far as any public statements were concerned, but he did speak out repeatedly inside the National Security Council, of which he is a member.

Finally, he was cut off from the routine Vietnamese cables. On occasion, when the President wanted the Vice President to make a policy speech supporting the war, he was given special- spoonfed briefings. But the regular flow of telegrams has never been resumed.

These were some of the factors which convinced Ball that he should resign from the United Nations, a position to which he had only recently been appointed, so he could say some things which Vice President Humphrey could not say.

—Blocking a TV Debate—

Republican House members did their best to save Nixon from a showdown debate with Hubert Humphrey. However, they were unable to prevent a vote on the "equal time" TV bill in the Rules Committee.

Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., walked out in a huff just before the closed-door vote, snorting: "We all agreed that we wouldn't meet again to take up anything unless it was of a critical nature. This bill isn't critical. So I'm leaving."

When Chairman William Colmer, D-Miss., called for a voice vote, Martin's four GOP colleagues on the committee — John Anderson, Ill., H. Allen Smith, Calif., James Quillen, Tenn., and Delbert Latta, Ohio — sat defiant in stony silence.

However, all of the committee's ten Democrats, except Spark Matsunaga, Hawaii, who was absent, voted "Aye," so the bill went to the House floor for final approval. Previously, there was a brief flareup when Rep. Ray Madden, D-Ind., declared:

"We all know that the country is confused about this election. The best way to un-confuse it is to hold this TV debate so voters will have a chance to study the nominees at close range and make up their own minds about the issues."

"All you want to do is save Hubert Humphrey because his campaign is falling flat," disputed Quillen of Tennessee.

"That's ridiculous," shot back Madden. "The people are entitled to know how the various nominees stand in a face-to-face encounter on the issues, and they won't know unless Nixon debates both Humphrey and George Wallace."

Jets and the Jitters

What shall it profit a businessman to fly across the country in a few hours if, while wheeling and dealing on Pacific time, his nervous system is still on Eastern time—or vice versa?

"Time zone fatigue," it's called, and it's a problem that will get worse when the supersonic jets shrink transcontinental or transatlantic travel time even more.

Since man's inner "biological clock" is set for a 24-hour day, the disorientation involved in beginning the cocktails and conference cycle just when your stomach says the bacon and eggs should be coming on definitely could cause difficulties.

Some firms take the matter so seriously, in fact, that they recommend a period of adjustment of at least a full day for executives jetting from coast to coast.

Not only do we get too soon old and too late smart. In the jet age, we get too soon where we're going and too late arrive.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

I. H. Reed, president and General manager of the Sedalia Water Company, was elected president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of directors. He succeeds Charles Van Dyne who served two terms. Other officers are: Vice-Presidents, Robert N. Overstreet and Ben P. Robinson; Treasurer, C. L. Hanley; Directors, E. W. Baker, Charles O. Botz, J. E. Brunkhorst, Rev. H. U. Campbell, J. F. Downs, J. C. Griffin, Paul Hedderich, Donald S. Lamm, Philip McLaughlin, Edward P. Mullaley, Howard Roberts, E. M. Stafford, Jr., A. H. Wilks and George R. Wilkerson. Ellsworth Green, serving in the armed forces, was re-elected secretary and Miss Marie Weller acting secretary.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Lee Hanley Leffler, a Freshman, was elected head cheer leader by students of Smith-Cotton High school during assembly. William Heynen, a Senior, was chosen assistant.

NINETY YEARS AGO

'Squire Clark has got a queer dog. He doesn't know his own mind two minutes at a time. Shoot him! ... Put a new kiver over Pearl River.' The foregoing is an approach to poetry, but we didn't intend it as such. The man who wrote it was killed at 11 a.m. yesterday ... Mr. J. B. Barrett's house on West Broadway was totally destroyed by fire. An employe about the house had set a kettleful of pitch on a red hot stove in the kitchen. The stuff boiled over onto the floor and broke out into a blaze. Mr. Barrett was severely burned trying to put out the fire.

The Bomb

Instant Compassion

Swedes All-out in Biafra Crisis

The starvation and dying of infants, children and adults is a daily horror in Biafra. The political situation is so confusing to the American public, and the diplomatic maneuvers of our government and the United Nations so perplexing, that millions of people are stymied in their desire to alleviate this suffering.

The facts are clear—thousands of war refugees are dying every day. These are the victims of an internal power struggle in Nigeria, not soon to be resolved no matter who claims victory or defeat.

If there can be any cheer, any good word out of this awful dying of innocent people, it must be our profound thanks to the instant compassion of the citizens of Sweden. They, and their Scandinavian neighbors, have carried the burden of getting air lifts established, relief supplies gathered and money flowing.

If people are surviving for another day in this African deathbed, it is due to the fierce determination and professional skill of half a dozen Swedish and Danish pilots who handle the night flights into besieged territory. Last week, 70 mercy airlifts brought in 700 tons of medicine, food and emergency supplies from the island of Sao Tome to sick and starving Biafrans.

While the rest of the world is sorry, the Swedes are again doing their thing, which is "instant compassion."

When the horror of Biafra first came on the wire services last summer, the Scandinavian churches pooled their efforts through Norchurchaid. They received immediate support from Church World Service and Catholic Relief Services. Air transports were leased and top pilots were quickly recruited—many being volunteers. To date, this massive supply effort has cost $7 million, with only $2 million paid for or underwritten by pledges.

Here in the United States, Protestant and Catholic churches have been appealing for funds to help in this human disaster.

Men and women of good will, who are moved to send money right now for this cause, should send checks to Catholic-Protestant Biafra Relief Fund, 475 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y. 10027. This is the largest and best co-ordinated headquarters for transmittal of cash and pledges.

But back to the Swedes. Here is a nation of people often misunderstood by some Americans. Their motion pictures have a shocking frankness which is too open for many of our citizens. Their public policy on sex education, birth control and divorce runs against the grain of our historic morality. They have not disguised their distaste for our folly in Vietnam any more than we have refrained from sniping at their gold-plated welfare state.

But I admire them. In a warring world, they keep plugging for peace. Surrounded by superpower politics, they have a special way of keeping the Russians embarrassed by their support of Czechoslovakia. And in spite of a welfare state and high taxes, their private industry may be the best in the Western world. A state church supported by taxes? Yes, but also the Christian community that started the ecumenical movement on its way.

Many Swedes are tall, their women pretty, their country enchanting. But what they are doing in Biafra is indeed beautiful.

In the good old days when you picked up a hand worth a forcing two bid you expected to get a chance to make that delightful bid. Today, you had better be the dealer also if you don't want someone to spoil your fun.

When today's hand was played in a recent tournament, every East player opened the bidding with one heart.

South would look over his cards two or three times to make sure that he was seeing correctly. He might think that a pinochle deck had been put in play if it weren't that he did hold the four of hearts. Then he would look suspiciously at East to see if East looked like the sort of player who would open a vulnerable psychic against a non-vulnerable opponent.

In the good old days you could usually recognize that sort of person by his wild and hungry look. Today you are likely to find that one of those little old ladies had decided to try one of those exciting although usually losing bids. Anyway, you can't tell and come to the conclusion that East really holds some sort of opening. There may still be a slam and you cue-bid two hearts. Your partner produces a three-diamond response to your cue bid. Where do you go from here?

We have shown three no-trump in the box because that is the winning bid.

You should give up your spade honors (they don't count in duplicate) and also all hope of a slam. Finally, you are looking at nine sure tricks. That is enough for a no-trump game. It won't bring in a spade game.

If a heart or diamond is opened, you have 10 tricks at either no-trump or spades; if a club or spade is opened you have nine tricks at either contract. The no-trump bid pays off either way.

My Geraniums

The first sign of autumn,
A chill in the air,
I couldn't chance old Jack Frost
Was hiding somewhere,
Now I couldn't see him
Yet, I felt he might
Be hid in the shrubbery
To dart out in the night,
With white paint in his bucket,
His brush in his hand
To put thick white frosting
Across the green land;
Jack Frost is a vandal,
An unruly boy,
Who delights in the fall
Our flowers to destroy,
And my red geraniums
I very well know
With one swipe of his brush
And down they would go,
Other flowers come again
When Jack Frost cuts them down
Making them modern art
Lines funny and brown,
But when he strikes geraniums
I'm certain that's all
So I pull them right up
As soon as it's fall,
Then I bring them in Something I hate to do
For they've been so lovely
The whole summer through,
I tie a string 'round the roots,
To the basement I go,
Hang them in a good spot
So next year they will grow,
But I cut off the blossoms
Of such vivid red,
Before I took them down
To put them to bed,
To keep the bright flowers
As long as they last,
But Jack Frost, so I found,
Didn't come quite so fast,
Still I'm glad they are in
For if he comes some night
When I don't expect him
My flowers are alright,
You see he's pretty sneaky
With that very first frost,
But I've taken care
That my flowers won't be lost,
Then next spring I will wait
Till I know he has fled
Then I'll put them back out
To brighten each bed.

Red Spots Under Skin Are Form of Purpura

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — I am a woman, 47. I have little red spots on my arms and chest that look like blood under my skin. What causes them? Are they anything to worry about?

A — Whether the spots are pinpoint in size or large spots that look like bruises, they are a form of purpura. The causes fall into three groups: (1) Those due to local injury (insect bites, snake bite, sprains, ruptured varicose veins and trauma), (2) capillary damage associated with chemical poisoning, acute infections, allergies or scruvy and (3) blood diseases (hemophilia, anemia, platelet deficiency and treatment with anticoagulants). How serious the condition is would depend on the cause.

Q — What causes one to get black-and-blue marks in various locations without any known injury?

A — Some form of purpura.

Q — Is purpura catching? Would vitamin B-12 help to cure it?

A — Although purpura is sometimes a symptom of an infectious disease, the symptom is not catching and in most cases the cause is non-communicable. One cause is pernicious anemia and against this disease vitamin B-12 is very effective. If, however, the cause is scurvy, the treatment would be vitamin C.

Q — What is Henock-Schoenlein purpura? What is the treatment.

A — Schoenlein purpura is an allergic purpura in which some of the bleeding occurs in the joints. Henoch purpura is an allergic form in which bleeding occurs in the intestinal wall, causing abdominal cramps. These forms of purpura are seen chiefly in children and young adults. Although they behave like allergic diseases, the underlying cause is often hard to find. Specific treatment is possible only if the allergen can be identified. Otherwise, relief of symptoms is all that can be offered.

Q — I have been told that my platelet count is low. Is this serious?

A — Blood platelets are cellular structures that are smaller and more fragile than the corpuscles. Their function is to prevent breaks in the capillaries. When the platelet count (normally about 300,000) drops below 100,000, small capillary hemorrhages occur — thrombocytopenic purpura. In most cases, the underlying cause is unknown. Surgical removal of the spleen is a lifesaving measure. It should be done before any other operation is attempted if severe hemorrhage is to be prevented.

Democrat Pickups

The man really doesn't look his age, nor does he feel it, but his hair is getting thin in the back. Recently he was out working in the yard when a small neighbor boy watching him remarked: "Mr. Anderson, your head is showing through." H.L.

A little boy told his teacher that another little boy couldn't come to school that day because he had anemia.

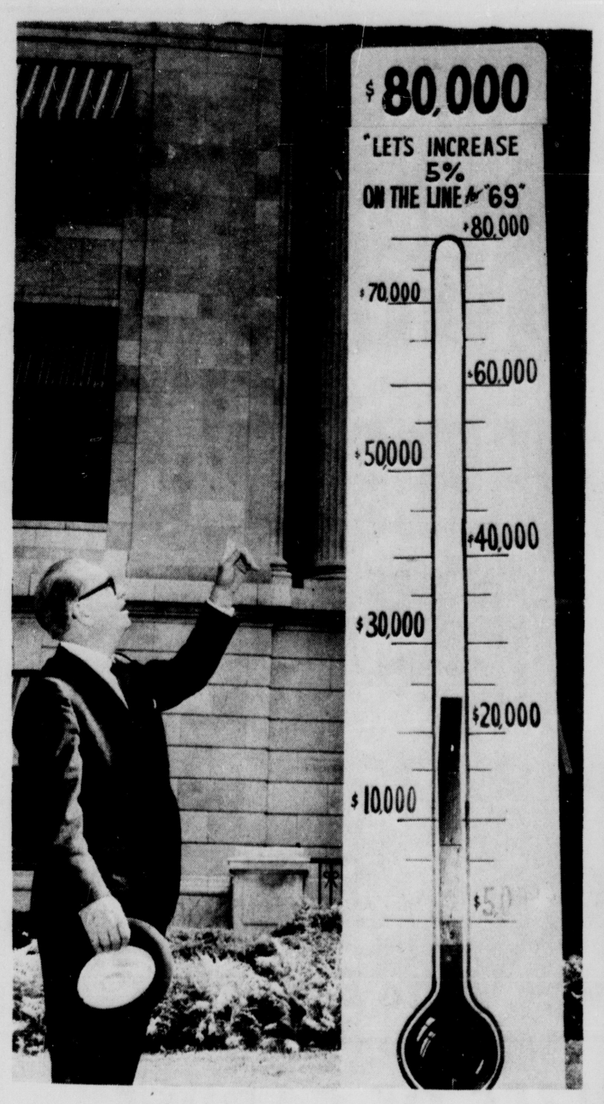

When the teacher checked to find out about the child she learned that he had had an attack of asthma. H. L.

It was a luncheon meeting for a woman's organization. Suddenly one of the women took her bracelet off and began working with it.

"I put this bracelet on without putting my glasses on," she explained, "and it's got a stray earring on it." With that she unhooked a small pearl earring caught in a link of the bracelet. H. L.

Bed Traps Woman

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Police, responding to a call after neighbors heard screams, found a woman trapped in a bed which collapsed as she moved it. Her head was wedged between bars of the wrought-iron headboard.

Officers said the woman used a clothes hanger to pull open a window and screamed for help.

They freed her by breaking one of the bars.

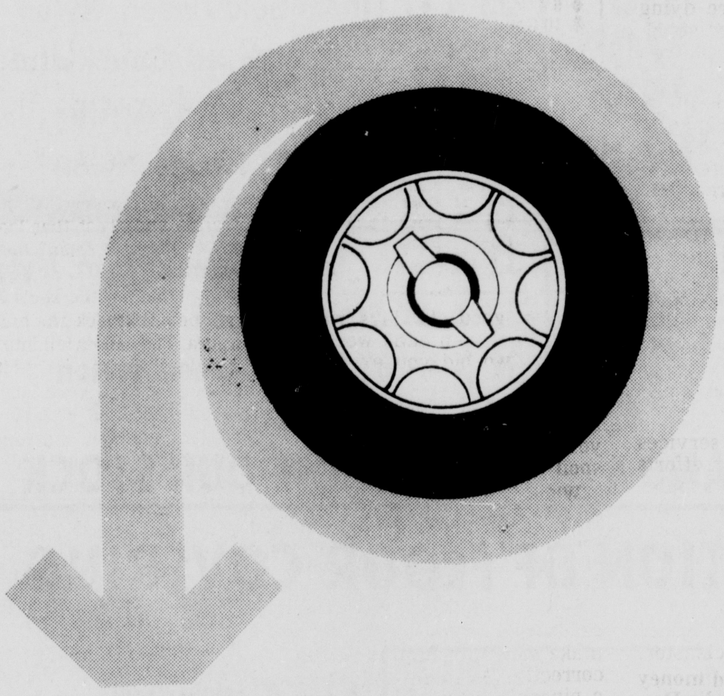

Recover Generators

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Two nuclear generators valued at $700,000 were recovered Wednesday by divers working from a small submarine 350 feet deep in the Pacific Ocean. The generators were lost May 18 when the Nimbus B weather satellite was destroyed shortly after launch because of a malfunction. A spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said the generators were intact.

Catholic Divorce Laws Come Under Heavy Fire

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—To invalidate a marriage in the Roman Catholic Church and get permission to remarry is a long, complicated process, requiring specified technical conditions, detailed proofs and drawn-out Church court procedures.

Big backlogs of cases have piled up in many dioceses. Some dioceses simply decline to handle them. Sometimes, getting a firm decision takes years. And then it often is "no."

Long an arena of keen personal distress, the Church's matrimonial court system lately has come under increasing fire.

It is "constitutionally incapable of meeting the obligations of the Church and the needs of our people involved in broken marriages," the Rev. John T. Finnegan, of Pope John XXIII Seminary, Weston, Mass., told a recent meeting of the Canon Law Society of America.

The criticism, from various Church quarters, has opened up the whole issue of Catholic laws against divorce and remarriage as a new controversy in the Church.

Last week, the presiding judge of the New York archdiocesan marriage court, Msgr. Stephen J. Kelleher, was transferred to a suburban parish after he proposed that the marital courts be abolished, and that Catholics involved in "intolerable marriages" be allowed to decide for themselves whether they are morally free to remarry.

The tribunals produce "frustration, humiliation, distrust, suspicion and fear," he wrote in a mid-September issue of the Jesuit weekly, America. He said the system should be "abolished entirely."

"This would mean," he added, "that each person would decide in his own conscience whether or not he is free before God from one marriage and free to enter another."

He suggested that marriage commissions, possibly headed by laymen, be set up to help individuals reach responsible decisions about their status, in line with Christian teachings.

New York Archbishop Terence J. Cooke later issued a statement saying he hoped Msgr. Kellerher's "opinion will not unduly upset people" and that "the indissoluble bond of marriage is basically a matter of divine law."

Msgr. Kelleher, who had served for 25 years in the archdiocesan marriage courts, subsequently was relieved of his chancery duties and transferred —without comment on either side—to St. Pius X parish in the wealthy Scarsdale, N.Y., suburb.

Numerous other clergymen, however, have spoken out recently, both in criticism and defense of the Church's strict rules barring dissolution of what is considered a valid Christian marriage.

Under Church law, remarriage is prohibited unless the earlier union is found to have been invalid for various specified reasons, such as nonconsummation, refusal to bear children, or because one partner had not been baptized at the time.

Catholics who do remarry after civil divorces without rulings by Church courts holding the previous unions invalid are barred from communion in the Church.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR LYNDA JOHNSON ROBB

How do you manage to stay so calm while your husband is serving in Vietnam?—Mrs. Merle Rood, Grants Pass, Ore.

● I miss Chuck, of course, but I am comforted by the realization that he, along with many other men, are giving so much of themselves in Vietnam. I am proud of my husband and of the fact that he so loves his country. I spend a great deal of time writing to Chuck to keep him up with what is happening back home. I find, too, that the cookies I bake and send him are a big hit.

FOR SHELDON S. COHEN,

Commissioner of Internal Revenue

Are cooking lessons or other courses in the homemaking arts considered tax-deductible for a housewife? —Mrs. J. Gallas, Ingelwood, Calif.

● An educational expense is deductible only if the course is required by an employer or is necessary to maintain or improve the skills required in your present employment. Unfortunately, being a housewife is not considered an employment under the provisions of the law.

FOR BOBBY RICHARDSON,

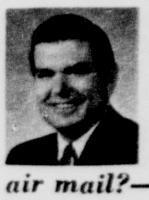

former N.Y. Yankee

What are you doing now that you are retired from baseball?—Steven Wilde, Spanish Fork, Utah

● I am associated with the Yankees on special assignment as a coach during spring training. I also evaluate players in the minor leagues and in the college and high-school ranks. I am a public-relations officer for an insurance company, too, and a national representative of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

FOR H. MARVIN WATSON,

Postmaster General

What are the size and weight restrictions on mail sent to an APO address by means other than air mail?—Mrs. E. R. Smith, Austin, Texas

● With the exception of certain military post-office destinations in Australia, Great Britain, Italy, and Turkey, the maximum weight is 70 pounds and maximum size is 100 inches, length and width combined. Due to domestic postal limitations in those four countries, smaller size and/or weight restrictions are applicable.

FOR BOBBY UNSER,

auto racing driver

How many times did you change tires during your Memorial Day Indianapolis-500 victory?—Raymond E. Britts, Kingsport, Tenn.

● None. My three quick pit stops were for refueling purposes only.

FOR HANK KETCHAM, creator of "Dennis the Menace"

Do you get ideas for your comic strip from bright sayings of children?—Mrs. Jean Obst, East Brunswick, N.J.

● No. I get ideas for "Dennis" from a reserve of vivid memories of my own childhood, plenty of old-fashioned head-scratching, and from the brilliant minds of former children—my four gag writers.

FOR NATALIE NEVINS, singer, "Lawrence Welk Show"

What had you been doing before you joined the "Lawrence Welk Show"? —Charles C. Norton, Vallejo, Calif.

● I was on the staff of WCAU-TV in my home town, Philadelphia, appearing as a singer with the station's band and on my own weekly show.

FOR REP. JAMIE L. WHITTEN,

chairman, House Appropriation Subcommittee on Farm Program Funds

Are the "horse-and-buggy" farming days a thing of the past?—Mrs. Viola Jaeb, Humboldt, Saskatchewan, Canada

● Yes. Today, a man has to make an average investment of $73,120 to start a farm and $37,600 additional for each worker. With the cost of living so high, a small farm, even in the hands of an able young man with a helpful wife, just won't make it. Today's small farmer, if old, is waiting to get on Social Security; if young, he either has a job in town or is waiting for one.

FOR ELINOR KAINE, football columnist

I am confused by books telling how a new fan should watch football games. What do you suggest?—Ann Regan, Brighton, Mass.

● Do as ex-players and coaches do—follow the ball. That's where the action is. Forget about watching certain backs or guards.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 405 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Mama, Third Time Around "He's cooler than the girls were," raves Edie Adams (Mrs. Marty Mills), "but this baby wants what he wants when he wants it." Edie raised her two stepdaughters, children of her late husband Ernie Kovacs, to womanhood and her own daughter Mia, now 8. Then Edie and Marty's son Joshua Dylan was born August 8, the first boy in the family for a long time. "I don't know what I'll do about that mother instinct to overprotect him." Edie "waited 10 days to get to know him," then gave her new son a combination of Biblical and Welsh family names.

Edie, Marty, Joshua

Musical Peyton Place Jeannie C. Riley tells it like it is in her hit single about the widow Johnson who "socked it to the Harper Valley P.T.A." The town's name derives from "harping" (as on one subject). The cast of characters in this rural Peyton Place—the lecherous husband, Bobby Taylor, the widow Jones who doesn't pull down her shades, Mr. Harper who was too drunk to go to the P.T.A. meeting—will get their own chance to star in an album about all the "Harper Valley" folk. Jeannie herself, 21, is married, has a little girl—and lives anything but a Harper Valley life.

Turnpike Tales The most traveled turnpike is the New York-Chicago run: 843 miles and $12.40 in tolls. According to turnpike police, the average driving time is 16 hours with the average driver making 20 stops, eight stops for tolls alone. A steady speed of 70 miles an hour is preferred, according to Lt. Richard Coleman of the Indiana State Police, and a car doing under 45 may be ticketed for slow driving. Turnpike patrols cover the entire road in 15- to 20-mile sections at least once an hour.

Life(saver) of the Party Bite down hard on a dry mint candy in a darkened room and sparks will fly. This latest scientific revelation has caused some concern as to whether the spark might generate enough static to cause an explosion in a space craft or oxygen tent. Apparently not, since such sparks are a flash of cold light, not electricity. It's a phenomenon called triboluminescence. Be the first in your crowd to show it off.

New Americana Cornerstones are structurally unnecessary in today's steel, aluminum, and glass buildings, but politicians and corporate officials love the tradition of laying the cornerstone—and the attendant publicity. So, where there's a will, there's a way. For example, the new Mutual Life data-processing center in Syracuse, N.Y., has its cornerstone on a pedestal in an enclosed patio off the lobby. Chicago's John Hancock building has a 400-pound fiber glass "skystone" laid 1,107 feet above its corner point.

What Church Should I "Join"?

MORE and more people are becoming interested in religion and one of the first questions which comes to their minds is, "What church should I join?" They realize that there should be a visible fellowship of believers and yet there are many such visible fellowships called "churches." Their question is a very natural one. Let us examine the Word of God to find the answer.

The New Testament presents only one church. Jesus said: "I will build my church; and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it." He established this church fifty days after his resurrection. Through the Holy Spirit he inspired the apostles on the day of Pentecost and, with Peter as the main spokesman, they proclaimed salvation to all who would believe and obey Jesus Christ as the crucified, buried, and resurrected Son of God. Those who believed this message asked the question, "What shall we do?" not, "What church should we join?" Peter replied to them in these words: "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit" (Acts 2:38). With other words Peter continued and exhorted them to save themselves from that crooked generation. Three thousand of them were baptized in response to this inspired instruction and others obeyed this gospel message later. "And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved" (Acts 2:47).

This church of Christ, body of Christ, kingdom of heaven on earth, grew by leaps and bounds. There were no denominations or sects in that New Testament church. Signs of the party spirit appeared in Corinth, and Paul severely reproved the church for such symptoms of division (1 Corinthians 1:12). All believers obeyed one gospel and were added by the Lord to one body or church.

So, from the New Testament we learn that there is only one church or kingdom of God established by Christ, and that men do not "join" it in the sense one "joins" a club or political party. No human being has the power to put one into this body or to turn one out of it. We simply face the fact that we are unsaved and ask the question, "What must I do?" Then we follow New Testament teaching and example and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ as the Son of God, repent of all our sins, and trusting in Christ we obey his command to be baptized (immersed) unto or in order to receive the forgiveness of our sins. Then the Lord will add us unto his church, or body, or kingdom, and we simply follow in Jesus' steps throughout our life. If all believers would do this, there would be no division among them. All would be Christians, members of the one Kingdom of God.

AMERICA'S HIGHWAYS:

They're Booby-Trapped to Save Your Life

By JAMES JOSEPH

"Bott's Dots" provide greater visibility.

MANY OF AMERICA'S highways are booby-trapped—to save our lives.

They are rigged to snare potential divider jumpers, purposely defaced to thwart skidding in wet weather, and gimmicked to jar dozing drivers.

Few motorists, however, are aware of the lifesavers and car savers built into nearly every mile they drive.

Consider the innocuous and even puny-looking chain-link divider fence. In reality, it's road science's muscular equivalent of a bear trap. A cunning car catcher, the "cable-link barrier," so-called because it consists of a chain-link fence backstopped by a steel cable, traps potential divider jumpers in steel mesh and cable.

A once-snared Texas driver describes the sensation of a cable-chain barrier catch this way: "That cable gives like a rubber band, stops you, and straightjackets your car in a net of steel."

Seemingly simple—but scientifically far more complex—are the myriad tiny grooves now cut in many skid-prone roads. Tiny as they are, they've come close to eliminating driving's most insidious phenomenon—the hydroplaning car.

In hydroplaning, your car actually flies. Unlike skidding, in which tires slide on slick pavement, the hydroplaning car takes off—rising completely (though seldom more than a fraction of an inch) off the pavement. It is "altitude" enough, however, for disaster because the driver is completely helpless.

Aerospace engineers were first to unmask the hydroplane phenomenon. Involved are basic hydraulics—water that behaves like a tire jack. Hydroplaning can occur whenever water, standing on a highway, is deeper than the depth of your tire treads (11/16th of an inch even on brand-new tires). Inundated, the tread grooves, which provide channels for water's escape, are blocked. So water dams up beneath your tires, pressure builds, and your car lifts off the ground.

Oddly, hydroplaning can be prevented in wet weather if a driver 1) remembers to overinflate his tires; 2) maintains a safe speed; 3) switches from today's low-profile (fat) treads to narrower tires.

A more practical solution: groove the pavement with tiny channels which become "escape routes" for rain water.

Thus, in Texas, Georgia, and California engineers use diamond-tipped circular saws to cut ⅛ to ¼-inch grooves wherever rain water collects. So closely spaced and minute are the grooves that neither you nor your tires feel them. Yet hydroplaning has been eliminated.

Some highway innovations, however, are meant to be felt—as the raised, plastic reflecters which are making painted lines obsolete. Swerve from the straight and narrow, and your wheels thump over the new raised lane markers, telling you that you are out of lane.

Invented by the late Dr. E. D. Botts, the California road scientist for whom they're named, "Botts Dots" give nighttime express lanes the visibility of airport runways, are discernible in wet weather or dry (unlike painted lines), and rumble inattentive drivers to the alert.

Here are some other highway "booby traps" worth watching for:

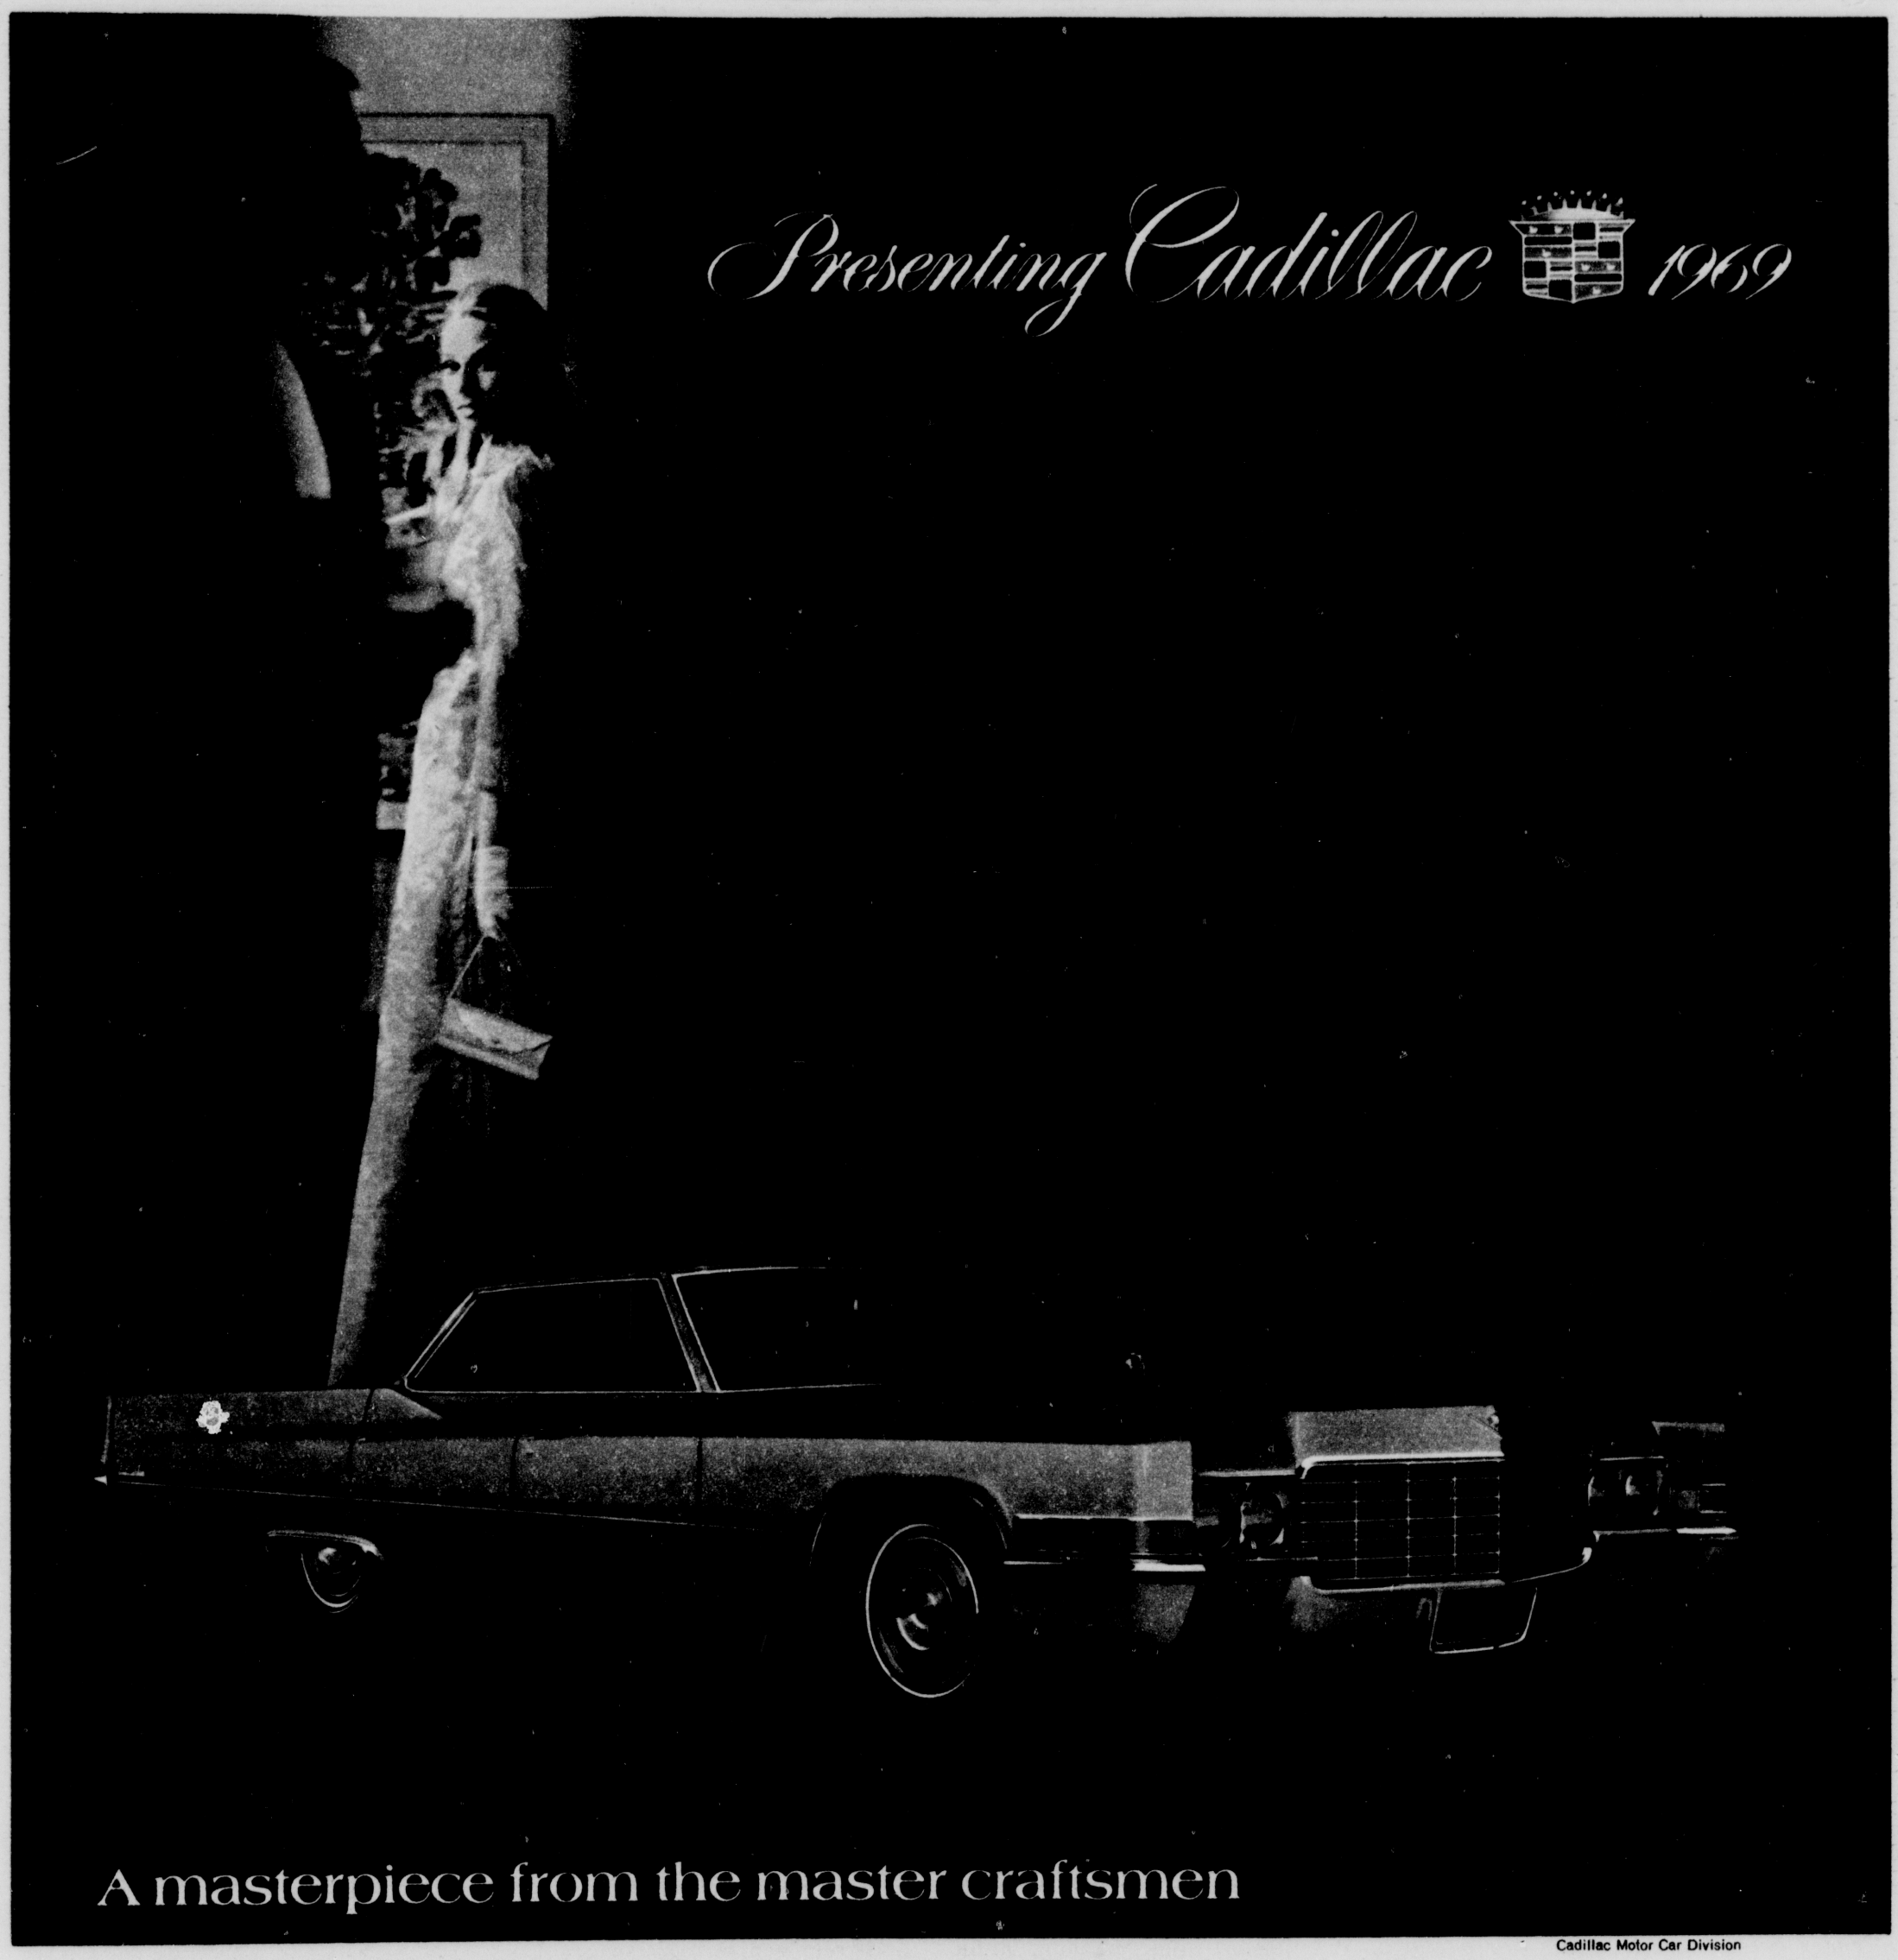

Breakaway sign posts—an innovation straight from Hollywood's prop shops. They fly harmlessly apart if you hit them and could save your life.

Grade warmers—heating elements, nestled just under the pavement on steep grades or bridge approaches, melt ice.

Escape ramps—strategically sited run-off roads, whose steep uphill grades, strewn rim-deep with loose sand,are meant to sandtrap runaway vehicles on a downgrade highway.

"Road-cultured" shrubbery—a specially bred genus of highway divider shrub that thrives in a carbon-monoxide and road-salt environment and, growing precisely to eye level, shields drivers from on-coming headlights.

With science working to make our highways the safest in the world, these are but a few of the latest achievements in the war against one of America's greatest killers—the auto accident. ◆

The 1969 Cars— A Step on the Road to Perfection

Style changes have been held to a minimum with the accent on safety—and, of course, luxury

By STANLEY H. BRAMS

THEY'VE DONE it again! The auto engineers have come up with new-model cars for 1969 which take long strides on the endless road toward perfection.

This 1969-model year may be unsensational in styling, but it will be one in which the entire industry registers important improvements in all aspects of automotive art.

There have been some giant improvements in the area of safety, for example. Every company has had a share in this. Fords are built on an energy-absorbing frame whose front rails are shaped something like an "S"; in severe impact the shape tends to telescope, swallowing up a share of the direct shock.

General Motors cars have side impact bars—some 80 pounds or so of sheet steel in the inner body, a direct shield of resistance to side impact. They also have an improved type of collapsible steering wheel which absorbs body impact better.

The industry's first antiskid device appears on the Continental Mark III —an electronically controlled device which lets you brake right to the point of locking the wheels but stops short of skidding them. (Tests show that it takes longer to stop when wheels are skidded: control is far less positive, too.)

Dodge has a radically new auxiliary light for night driving, the Super-Lite, developed by Sylvania. It provides an intense, concentrated beam of precisely controlled light which lengthens visibility along the road without excessive glare in the eyes of oncoming drivers. It works on the same principle as a movie projector. The light is clipped off at the edges of the screen with no overhang or diffusion.

And, of course, there are more humble changes, too, but obviously important ones—head rests, belts, repositioning of door locks and instrument-panel controls, improved disc brakes, and new fiber-glass "belted tires" which differ from radial tires in that the plies run diagonally as in conventional tires but have a belt of fiber glass underneath the rubber, thus giving you the smooth ride of a conventional tire and the safety of a radial.

On the average, the new cars are bigger, bodies have been widened and lengthened. Even where there has been no change in basic dimensions —wheelbase and over-all length—ingenious construction techniques have been developed, giving passengers more leg room and more hip room.

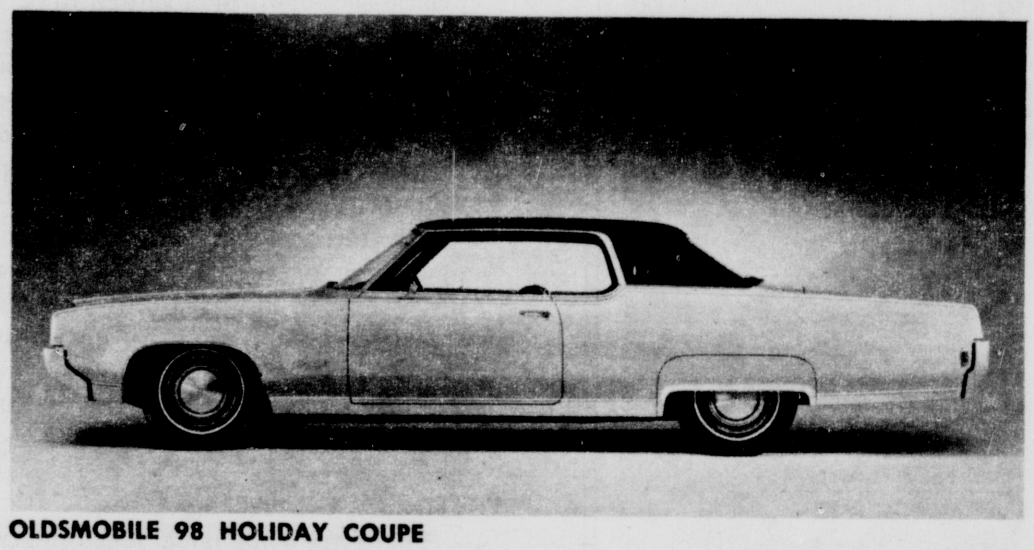

They are more powerful cars, too. Almost all manufacturers have enlarged their engines and improved power-plant "breathing," so the horsepower scales are higher but gasoline is used more effectively—economically. And the variety! Chevrolet's six lines offer no less than 18 horsepower ratings, 90 to 435.

Idling speeds on the new cars are higher, and so are engine speeds; impurities are thus burned up in the engine and not expelled into the air. The net result is cleaner air coming out of the exhaust, somewhat relieving the smog problem.

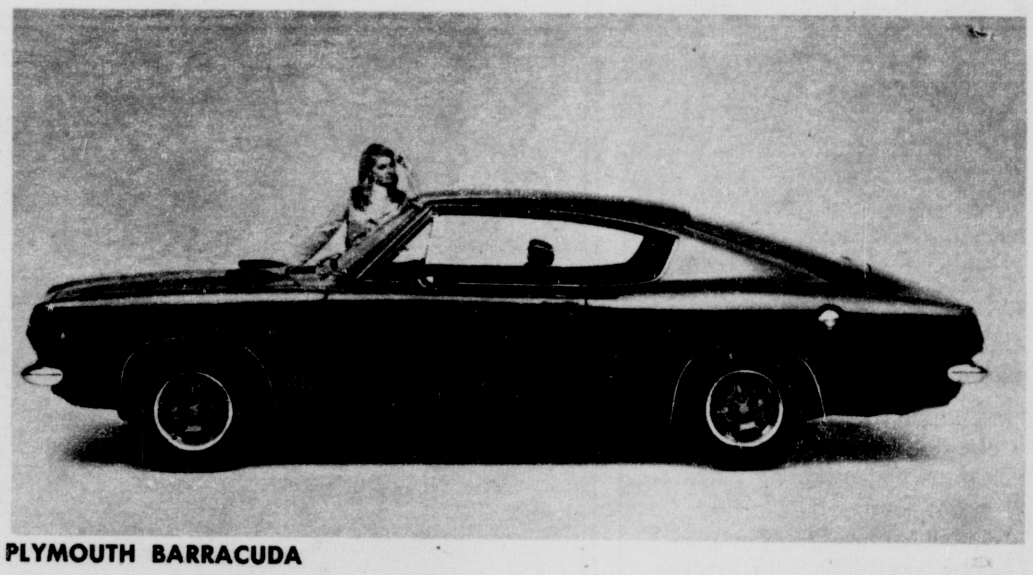

Closely allied to this development is improved carburetion. Carburetors are now being sealed in and adjusted more precisely at the manufacturer's because they've become far too involved and delicate for the average mechanic to tinker with.

Some of the changes aren't visible but are equally important. Buick has taken a really revolutionary approach to car stability with a completely new system of cambering (angling) the front wheels, so the up-and-down movement when you hit a bump serves to hold the car level. The Ambassador of American Motors goes at it differently; its new rear-suspension design serves notably to stabilize the ride better and to reduce vibration at the same time.

Nor can you see the new disc brakes which grace many of the cars. Dodge's floating caliper discs are redesigned to improve cooling and thus reduce wear and possible distortion. General Motors options include a single-piston disc unit instead of the former four-piston design.

Resilient front bumpers can be had on 1969 Chevrolet Camaros as well as the Pontiacs, upon which they were introduced last year. They have plastic sections which return to original form after mild impact. This year, incidentally, Pontiac offers an around-the-side molding of this same material to ward off those body scratches you can get at tight-squeeze parking lots.

All General Motors cars have a new kind of lock, which safeguards not only the ignition but also the steering column and the gear-shift mechanism. A would-be car thief may be able to "jump the wires" past the ignition and start the car, but he won't be able to shift gears and turn the steering wheel.

There are some novel ideas in styling. Plymouth is making much of its floral roofs on hardtop models. Gay vinyl patterns are an option in practically any color of the rainbow; Plymouth feels these designs will be as distinctive for women as an Yves St. Laurent dress.

Pontiac has an exciting new Grand Prix design with the longest hood in the industry. Mercury, too, has something new with its Marquis series, a kind of junior edition of the classic Continental lines, and Cadillac has 205 trim combinations from which you can choose.

Inside you can have your seating as you like it—with bench seats, buckets, benches with arm rests, and dual seats which can be regulated individually for height and position.

Styling has been improved, too, by the elimination of vent windows on most of the new models, thus giving drivers better visibility. Elimination of these vent windows, standard for the last 35 years, has been made possible by development of new forced-air ventilation systems which pipe outside air into the passenger compartment and bleed it out at the rear. There will be a wide choice of such systems.

The idea of the individualized car continues as strong as ever. The combinations are enough to slow down one's choice! There are more engines this year, many with a multiple choice of carburetion.

But enough of the generalities. Let's see what specific changes have been made in each line:

American Motors: The biggest news is in the newly designed Ambassador series, four inches longer and with wider tread. The former American series is now called the Rambler group. The Rebel's track is wider; the AMX, which attracted a lot of sports-car attention when introduced in the spring, now is offered with racing stripes as part of a special "go" package.

Buick: The Le Sabre line is entirely new with a larger rear window. Electra and Wildcat, too, have been redesigned. Variable power-steering ratios are provided on the senior lines, giving the driver more turn on the wheels with less turn on the steering wheel. An electric fuel pump appears on the Riviera, pushing fuel into the carburetor under pressure—thus practically eliminating engine cutouts or "sags" after idling or standing in hot weather.

Cadillac: Bodies are new—hoods longer, roofs on some models lengthened, with the rear window di-

COLLECT $157.50 A WEEK—JUST LIKE WAGES—WHILE YOU ARE IN THE HOSPITAL

By taking 2 minutes to read the amazing facts below, you can learn how to collect as much as $8,212.50—RIGHT IN THE HOSPITAL—to spend in any way you please.

What if you should wake up to find yourself flat on your back in a hospital bed—and be there for weeks or even months? Think of all the things that $2,000 or $5,000 or $8,000 in extra spendable cash, over and above your hospital insurance, could mean.

Cash to pay the mortgage. Cash to buy food. Cash to meet car payments—pay for child care—buy gasoline—buy school clothing—pay a tax bill.

Your regular health care insurance is not intended to help with family living needs. The "high cost of living" is apart from hospital costs. Household bills go on just the same. Your family still has to eat three meals a day. The landlord or the bank still wants the money when it is due.

Just a few weeks of this kind of financial pressure—with nothing coming in, everything going out—could plunge your loved ones into actual want. No husband or father, hospitalized or healthy, wants his family to go into debt.

A Service of Americare®

It is to meet this kind of personal and family emergency that American Republic has developed the "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan"—a service of Americare.® Here, specifically, is what this plan can do for you:

This plan can pay you $157.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $22.50 per day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. It gives you the right to collect this $157.50 per week for any number of weeks up to ONE FULL YEAR. This extra cash income is paid directly to you. You don't have to pay one penny of it to the hospital. It is yours to spend as you wish.

In fact, you can collect a total of as much as $8,212.50 extra personal cash if you are in the hospital for as long as a year.

What's more, this is LifeGuarded® Protection. This means it is Guaranteed Renewable. It can be yours for LIFE as long as you make timely payment of your current premium. It can NEVER be cancelled by the Company because of age, health or number of claims.

Check All These Advantages

- Pays whether you are in the hospital for injury OR sickness.
- Pays in cash directly to you. It's yours to spend any way you like.
- Benefits are increased 10% if premium is paid annually in advance, or increased 5% if paid semi-annually in advance.
- Pays in addition to any other insurance carried with American Republic or any other company. Even pays in addition to Workmen's Compensation or Medicare.
- You are covered during any hospital confinement for any accident from the date your policy is issued, and for any sickness that begins after 30 days from date of issue. Unless, of course, your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or when you are in a U.S. Government or Veterans Hospital.
- NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION, regardless of your age—and there is NO AGE LIMIT.

Easy As 1...2...3...

Protection under the American Republic "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan" is available in individual protection "units."

You simply decide how many of these units you need for your particular coverage requirements—and put them together like building blocks. For example:

The "1-UNIT" PLAN pays you $52.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $7.50 a day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. This plan can pay you as much as $2,737.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

The "2-UNIT" PLAN pays you $105.00 per week (at the rate of $15.00 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to as much as $5,475.00 if you should be in the hospital a full year.

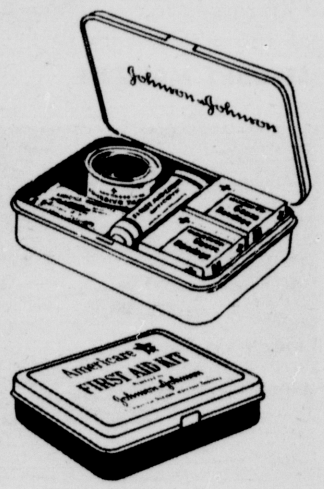

The "3-UNIT" PLAN pays you $157.50 per week (at the rate of $22.50 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to a total of $8,212.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

Your decision is easy. Just choose the plan that fits your needs best. Best of all, no matter which plan you choose, you get...

Protection That PAYS

According to latest 5-year figures, American Republic returned a greater percent of premium dollars to policyholders in claim benefits than any of the other Top 40 insurance companies offering individual accident and health insurance. So, when you own this policy, you have protection that PAYS. This is another important advantage of Americare.®

vided by a vertical glass line amidships. The frame is also 7½ inches longer. Front seat belts automatically adjust to proper position and, when not in use, are stored in a special seat compartment. Novel engine note: the cooling system is all but sealed, with replenishment through a vented overflow bottle.

Chevrolet: The Chevrolet insignia is completely restyled, and the Camaro is slightly longer and wider. A concave rear window is available on some models. Steering is more responsive. Standard V-8 engines are larger in many of the series. Finned front brakes improve stopping power on the Novas. Wagon tailgates are two-way, opening from either bottom or side. Camaro has new styling; Corvette has new exterior door latches of interesting design. Chevelle's power plants are larger.

Chrysler: Nearly five inches longer, these bodies are all-new; inside dimension has been enlarged, too. Variable-speed windshield wipers are concealed and wipe more surface. The two wagons have an air deflector built into the roof which sweeps an airstream across the rear window to keep it clean; the tailgate opens from the bottom or side.

Dodge: The Polara-Monaco line is entirely new, somewhat reminiscent of the much-admired Charger. There are three basic body shells, all with curved and ventless side windows. The Dart has a new "Swinger" hardtop and a good variety of engine choices. Charger has a manually adjustable tilt seat. Tires are enlarged on most models for better ride and longer wear.

Ford: The basic nameplate is completely new. All models have a longer wheelbase, over-all length, and wider track. Headlamps are hidden on some models. Mustang's doors have been thinned, allowing more interior room. Fairlane has a new six-cylinder engine; Falcon's engine has been modified for more economy. Thunderbird has been lowered, thanks to new suspension improvements, has a larger engine, and an electrically heated rear window.

Imperial: An all-new look: the car is five inches longer while maintaining the same 127-inch wheelbase. Lights are hidden; taillights are sequential. Built-in pillows in the seat area provide a luxury touch.

Lincoln Continental: Interiors are redesigned on two models (two-door and four-door), and there is a distinctive town-car interior option. Engine horsepower has been increased from 340 to 365. The front grille is somewhat recessed. The Continental Mark III, introduced last spring and sold out until the end of the year, is unchanged.

Mercury: The main name car has a new chassis and new sheet metal built on a wheelbase one inch longer. As a result, Mercury is 1.7 inches longer; tread is wider, height is lower. The Marquis series (six models) has a new engine to go with its new design. On the Cougar line, new sheet metal makes the car longer wider, and lower.

Oldsmobile: The Toronado has been thoroughly restyled but not as radically as in the past. Wheelbase on the "98" series is longer (127 inches), and the deck has been lengthened for added luggage space. All four engine choices have improved carburetion, making cold-weather starting easier.

Plymouth: The Fury group is new, 1.5 inches longer, nearly two inches wider, with more than three inches of added rear shoulder room. Windshield shape is new. Seats adjust better; standard wheels are now 15 inches in diameter. The Satellite Road Runner now includes a convertible. Valiant's two engine options offer higher output, and standard engines have been improved. The Barracuda is available in a new performance series.

Pontiac: This year's models ride on wheelbases one inch longer than last year; track is also widened an inch for more stability. Bodies are all restyled, with a sharply split grille up front. Firebird's two models are all new. The Tempests have spirited new grilles and two ram-air options, one with hood intakes. The Grand Prix, which we already noted, has an interior feature of a cockpitlike instrument panel. ◆

FOR GIRLS ON THE GO– Separates in High Gear

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

The fashion taboo which dictates against wearing two or more patterns at once is delightfully breached in this team-up of plaid bias skirt, polka dot stock-tied shirt with pseudo-leather vest from Russ. Jewelry, Coro.

■ The fashion formula for travel this fall shifts into high gear with "multiple" choice—separates that are layered on in twos, threes, and, sometimes, four pieces of finery. Skins—suede and leather (or its look-alike)—are leading the parade; plaid makes a comeback in skirts and pants; "man-tailored" is still a look to be reckoned with. These clothes are great for out-of-doors, perfect for that drive in the country in your new car, just the thing for blazing trails in your sportswear planning. ◆

Motor away from it all with two great put-togethers: gaucho pants and vest costume in brushed pigskin with gaiters is from Hush Puppies sportswear by Bill Atkinson of Glen of Michigan. From Ship'n Shore hails a romantic shirt with poet's collar, French cuffs paired with knit tie, belted cardigan, wool A-line skirt. Open-work-to-the-knee panty hose by Hummingbird. Shoes by Hush Puppies.

Caprice. Match this, you other '69's!

Chevrolet introduces 1969.

There is no joy in the land of our competitors today.

But let us ask you this.

Should we have made the Caprice shorter instead of the longest Chevrolet ever built? Or adorned it with flashy nicknacks to make it look less expensive?

Should we not have offered you washers to clean your headlights, the new variable-ratio power steering, or liquid tire chain that you can apply to your rear wheels at the touch of a button?

Should we not have included the big new 327-cubic-inch V8 as standard equipment, giving you 235 horsepower?

Should we have skipped the many improvements in the interior and in the quietness of the ride?

Some people think so.

Would You Survive These Driving Emergencies?

If you don't score 100 percent on this test, you're headed for deadly trouble on the highway

By TERRY GALANOY

SUDDENLY you feel very sick because you might die. There's a car coming at you head-on. You have one chance —a split-second one.

Do the wrong thing and you'll end up one of the six Americans who die on our highways every hour. Do the right thing and it's possible to come through the incident with nothing worse than a cold sweat.

The difference, according to new research by the National Safety Council, is knowing what to do without thinking about it—knowing what to do automatically.

Here is a test of common driving emergencies. A perfect score is the only passing grade. If you miss one or more, study the correct answer and fix it in your mind. It could save your life. (Geographical locations are added for interest only and have no bearing on the answers.)

1. You are touring the Midwest. As you approach Lake Geneva, Wis., you drive around a curve too fast. Your car leaves the road and plunges into the lake.

a) Open the door immediately and get out.

b) If the windows are up, break one and get out.

c) Roll one of the windows down and get out.

2. You are driving across the Mojave Desert in 105-degree heat when you smell smoke and see that the engine compartment is on fire. You have no extinguisher in the car. You brake to a stop and then:

a) Open the hood and disconnect the battery cables.

b) Smother the fire with blanket or jacket.

c) Pull the burning wires out with your hands.

3. You are descending into Mexico City on a mountain road that drops very steeply. You are going too fast and step on the brake to slow down. The pedal sinks all the way to the floor. You have no driving brakes.

a) Pump the brakes again and again.

b) Use the parking brake.

c) Sideswipe brush, small trees, guard rail, etc.

4. You are driving to San Diego, Calif., along the four-lane Coast Highway at night. The closer you get to San Diego, the darker and foggier it gets. Finally you decide that it's too foggy to drive and pull over on the shoulder. Your car has no emergency flasher system.

a) Turn your lights off and wait for the fog to lift.

b) Leave lights on and sit it out.

c) Leave only your parking lights on and sit it out.

5. You are trying to make time across the Texas Panhandle at night. You are going about 70 on a straight two-lane blacktop road when your headlights go out.

a) Pump the accelerator to charge the electrical system, then brake.

b) Flick the light switch on and off, then brake.

c) Keep the steering wheel steady, then brake.

6. You are on a two-lane road in Bucks County, Pa. You pull up behind a slow-moving line of cars and decide to pass them. Halfway down the line, a car appears and is coming at you head-on. Cars are solidly on your right.

a) Blow your horn, flash your lights, then brake.

b) Blow your horn, flash your lights, then speed up to squeeze by.

c) Blow your horn, flash your lights, then force the car on your right over into the shoulder.

7. You are driving down the Great River Road alongside the Mississippi River. Just outside of Sandusky, Iowa, your attention wanders and your right wheels leave the pavement and drop a couple of inches onto the soft dirt shoulder.

a) Brake immediately and stop.

b) Slow down and drive your car back onto the pavement gradually.

c) Slow down and turn the wheels back at a sharp angle.

8. You are driving across the Kansas Turnpike at the legal speed limit of 80 miles per hour. You see an exit coming up and decide to get off for lunch. You take your foot off the accelerator, and it stays flat on the floor with the engine running full speed.

a) Get on the brake right away.

b) Put the car into neutral and coast to a stop.

c) Turn off the ignition and brake to a stop.

9. You are winding through the mountains near Gainesville, Ga., when a car speeds around the curve ahead and into your lane. You blow your horn, flash your lights, and brake, but the car continues coming toward an inevitable head-on collision.

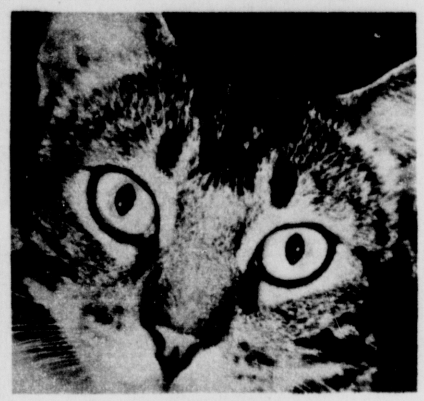

a) Pull over to the left lane.

b) Get over to the right as far as possible.

c) Get off the road.

Zero Hour

The drinks are gone, but the guests stay on,
And the hostess, checking her cupboards,
Finds them as bare of edible fare
As poor old Mother Hubbard's.

And the icebox shows what the hostess knows,
And pickings could not be thinner.
And that's when, with spirits high as a steeple,
The man of the house booms, "Hey, you people,
Why don't you stay for dinner?"

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

QUIPS AND QUOTES

Once upon a time all Americans were happy, enjoying life and making an easy living with plenty of time for sports, dancing, and big dinners. Then the white man landed. —Stephanie von Esse

A playboy was yachting among the Greek isles when he fell overboard and injured his back. He was rushed to the nearest clinic, where the local doctor told him gravely: "Brace yourself, the prognosis is not good. You'll probably never work again."

The jet setter replied bravely: "All right, I can take it. What's the bad news?"

—Al Roberts

In view of what doctors charge these days, they could at least give the "common cold" a fancier name.

—Hal Chadwick

The girls in the office were about to take up still another collection to buy a gift for a bride-to-be. The office manager instructed the young steno about to pass the collection box: "You should get a dollar from most of the men—except that new assistant sales manager. Stay away from him."

"You mean he won't contribute?"

"Worse than that. Last collection he said, 'I'm planning on getting married myself one of these days, thanks,' and helped himself to five dollars."

—Pat Kraft

An antique collector bought a grandfather clock on sale, supposedly in good working order, but he soon discovered it was losing about 15 minutes an hour. He complained to the dealer, who shrugged it off, saying: "The sign clearly stated, '25 percent off.'" —Jean Davidson

Answers to "Driving Emergencies," page 17

1. Getting out an open window (c) is the safest procedure. Doors are hard to open against water pressure; tempered car windows are very hard to break.

2. Try to smother the fire (b) and get it out. Battery cables are hard to disconnect without tools; pulling burning wires out with your bare hands can cause serious electrical burns.

3. Pump the brakes again and again (a) in an effort to build up hydraulic pressure. You should be able to build up enough to help the car stop. If not, the parking brake should be used but might not be too effective on a steep hill. In that case, sideswipe something to get your car stopped.

4. Surprisingly enough, you should turn your lights off (a) to wait it out. Any display of lights during a bad fog can cause drivers behind you to believe your car is on the roadway and in motion. Results: a rear-end collision. The National Safety Council also suggests that you get out of the car and keep well away from it in a situation of this type.

5. Keep that steering wheel steady (c) and stop the car as fast as possible. Something has happened in your electrical system and under ordinary circumstances no amount of jiggling with inside controls will solve the problem.

6. You'll have to use your best judgment in this too-common and too-deadly situation but, ordinarily, (a) would be the correct answer. Don't ever try to speed up to solve this problem—it doesn't work. And how far you can squeeze to the right without running the other guy off the road is a matter of driving skill.

7. Slow down and turn back onto the road at a sharp angle (c). Trying to turn back gradually or attempting to stop with two wheels on the soft shoulder can be a very dangerous tactic.

8. Get the engine turned off (c). Putting on the brakes with a runaway engine won't help. Putting the car into neutral with a roaring engine could explode it.

9. If there is no other way to escape a head-on collision to the right, go off the road (c). Even a rollover into a ditch is less dangerous than a head-on crash. ◆

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY---I always keep two vegetable brushes on hand. The extra is for doing dishes, scouring pans, etc. This helps keep my hands in good shape by keeping them out of harsh detergents.---BEATRICE

DEAR POLLY—Old hose are wonderful stuffing for dolls and animals and are easier than foam rubber.—CLAUDIA

DEAR POLLY---Instead of discarding old bobby pins that have lost the plastic tips, dip them in colorless nail polish and let a drip form at the end. Let dry very well and away you go.---G. H.

DEAR POLLY—When I forget to buy candle holders for a birthday cake I use red maraschino cherries. —MARTHA

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—After polishing shoes with paste shoe polish, toothpaste takes the polish off hands and nails. It also takes ball point ink off your hands.—MIKE

DEAR POLLY---If anything goes wrong with an appliance it is a job to find the model and serial numbers. Make a copy of those when the appliance is new, before the numbers get covered with dirt and grease.---MRS. F. G. R., JR.

DEAR POLLY—Did you ever need an emergency hanger when traveling? Make a stiff roll with a whole section of newspaper, tie in the middle with string and hang on a hook in the car or closet.—NANCI

DEAR POLLY---Teen-agers find it hard to wear a pair of nylon hose for even a day without getting runs. When you first buy nylons put them in the freezer for about two hours. Remove, let thaw, then wash them and you will get fewer runs and more wear.---ROSE

DEAR POLLY—Cleaning cupboards and washing extra dishes seems like an endless task. Now I wash a few dishes daily with my regular dish washing and set them back with the spot cleaned. When I want to take time to change the shelf paper the dishes are all clean.—R. D.
